Patty, cohorts face multiple charges

Fugitive heiress, parents reunited

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Her long and violent journey into the underground at an end, Patricia Hearst was reunited today with the parents she had renounced as pigs. Her father said she was ready to come home.

"She was happy ... she really wants to come home," Randolph A. Hearst said after he and his wife visited their daughter at a county jail in Redwood City where she is being held on bank robbery and other charges.

"We told her we loved her and free his 21-year-old daughter, who is hugged her and kissed her," Catherine Hearst told newsmen at the jail. "We just said we loved each other.

The most celebrated fugitive hunt in the nation's history came to a swift conclusion Thursday with the capture of Miss Hearst and three fellow radicals. It had been 19 months since she had seen the parents she reviled for their wealth.

GOP ponders loss in New Hampshire

WASHINGTON (AP) — This may be next year in the opening primary of the a season for political rebels.

And it is a time in which the campaign muscle of organized labor can be exercised more tellingly than ever

Those are the 1976 portents from New Hampshire's landslide decision to send Democrat John A. Durkin to the Senate, where he took his seat Thursday still promising to rock the boat.

It is risky at best to read election returns in one state as a barometer of national trends. But the ballots New Hampshire voters cast last Tuesday do offer polling-place evidence of what people are thinking some 14 months before the 1976 elections.

And those same voters will provide the first test of presidential candidates

In addition, students will have a chance to meet informally with faculty members and hear a panel of Otterbein College students discuss their own college experiences and future plans.

That certainly was the choice Durkin offered them, and they took it, electing him by a 27,000-vote margin.

New Hampshire's 165,000 Republicans hold a 50,000 registration lead over the Democrats, but that was no help to GOP candidate Louis C.

Wyman's strategists said after the special election defeat that their candidate was at a disadvantage because he was seen as the Washington man and because, as a five-term congressman, he never could shake that image.

Durkin said one of his big sellingpoints was the fact that he'd never been to Congress and had nothing to do with the system in Washington.

No less a conservative than New Hampshire's Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. said the outc to trouble for incumbents — including himself and President Ford.

George Young, Wyman's campaign manager, said the Republican trouncing was a measure of voter frustration, and the unexpectedly high turnout was evidence that the people are more riled up than anyone had

But Eddie Mahe Jr., executive director of the Republican National Committee, said he doubted there were national implications in the New Hampshire outcome.

He said Wyman was crippled because of his acknowledged role in arranging a 1972 campaign contribution by Mrs. Ruth Farkas, later named ambassador to Luxembourg by former President Richard M. Nixon. The matter is still under investigation by the Watergate special prosecutor.

Mahe also said organized labor was a key to the big Democratic showing.

For residences of 25 low-income families

Home winterization project set

Final plans for a home renovation program to be initiated by the Fayette County Community Action Commission have been announced by Roger Peercy, program planner.

With financial assistance from a federal grant, the Fayette County Community Action Commission will winterize approximately 25 homes of lowincome families beginning next

The goal of the program is twofold. In addition to helping area residents improve their homes, the project will conserve fuel used to heat the dwellings.

Eligible homes will receive weather stripping, roof insulation, storm windows, calking or other repairs necessary for the winter months.

All expenses, up to a maximum of $350 per home, will be borne by the Community Action Commission. There will be no charge to the recipients. A total grant of $5,799 has been authorized by the Community Services Administration for the project in Fayette County.

In order to evaluate eligibility. an advisory board of local residents has been selected. Board members include Ray Warner, county commissioner: Mrs. Mae Graham, who will serve as chairwoman; Rick Stinson, Dayton Power and Light Co. employe; and Mrs. Sudie Ricketts and Mrs. Alberta Grabill.

John Henson, energy coordinator for the program, will interview prospective recipients, assess their needs, and present a tentative list of eligible recipients to the advisory board for approval.

Work on the homes selected will be done by Corky Wilt and Don Curtin of Curtin Heating and Electric Co., as well as members of the Adult Work and Training Program of the Community Action Commission.

Assistance in selecting homes which may be eligible will be obtained from the Fayette County Health Department and the Fayette County Welfare Department. However, interest from local residents will be appreciated. Peercy asks that if

Tropical storm rebuilds strength

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm some residents were reported stocking Eloise churned slowly through the Caribbean today, gathering strength for an expected resurgence into the hurricane that left at least 30 persons dead and thousands homeless on three islands

The storm, downgraded from a hurricane Thursday after losing much of its power when its winds and torrential rains pelted southern Cuba, continued on a generally westward path after shifting briefly toward the strength and becomes a hurricane again," said forecaster Paul Hebert of the National Hurricane Center.

The center warned residents of the Lesser Cayman Islands to take immediate precautions against the storm's winds of 45 miles per hour and heavy rain squalls. Residents of Jamaica and Central and Western Cuba were told to expect heavy rains, and Cuban officials placed the provinces of Camaguey and Las Villas on "a state of alert."

At 12:01 a.m. EDT today, the storm was centered about 150 miles northeast of Grand Cayman Island. It was moving westward at 13 m.p.h.

Hebert said Thursday night that forecasters were still expecting Eloise to turn toward the northwest, putting it on a track toward the Gulf of Mexico.

"We are having trouble understanding why it hasn't turned yet,' he said. "But as it moves further west, it moves out of the longitudes of danger to Florida.

FDA turned shellfish toxin over to Army, agency says

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration said today it turned over a quantity of lethal shellfish toxin to the Army after overproducing the poison while searching for an antidote to it.

The FDA statement shed more light on the possible source of the poison that was secretly kept by the Central Intelligence Agency in violation of presidential orders to destroy it.

The CIA had been working with the Army in experiments on shellfish toxin at Ft. Detrick, Md. After the presidential order to destroy it, 11 grams were transferred from Ft. Detrick to a CIA laboratory.

The FDA said it turned over 11 to 12 grams of the poison after over-

The FDA said that after World War II the Army sought the assistance of the Public Health Service in developing biological and chemical warfare weapons because of the "implied as well as real health threats to the civilian population associated with the development of such weaponry.'

Judge in turn praises court staff

Supreme Court honors Winegardner

Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner has been cited by the Ohio Supreme Court for having cleared the local court docket of contested drunken driving charges.

Chief Justice C. William O'Neill congratulated Judge Winegardner on helping to ease the court backlog which has plagued courts throughout the state.

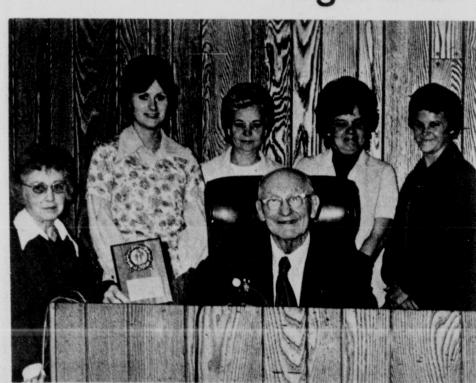

Presentation of the award to judges who have current dockets was made at the Judicial Conference Annual Meeting earlier this month, but poor health prohibited Winegardner from attending. An honorary plaque was sent to the judge, however.

Winegardner praised his office staff which was responsible for processing all the contested drunken driving cases. Each case involves a great deal of paperwork, and the secretaries have done an outstanding job, he said.

He praised the work of Mrs. Sue Anderson and Mrs. Rosemary Rinehart in particular. These two are primarily responsible for the work on such cases, and they have done exceptionally well, he added

The judge emphaiszed the amount of paperwork which has resulted from increasing numbers of cases each year. "When I took office this court collected less than $45,000 per year in fines," he said, "This year we have collected $20,000 per month."

Judge Winegardner who has presided in Washington C.H. Municipal Court for 13 years, will retire in December.

OUTSTANDING SERVICE - Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner holds an honorary plaque he received this week from Ohio Supreme Court Justice C. William O'Neill for outstanding service to the Ohio court system in 1975. Judge Winegardner credits the Municipal Court secretarial staff as being instrumental in winning the award. The staff members are, left to right, Ann O'Conner, Marsha Edgington, Rosemary Rinehart, Mary Belle Cockerill and Ruth Burden. Sue Anderson, another member of the staff, was absent when the picture was taken.

Slowdown in inflation seen

Food prices, which rose sharply in June and July, showed no increase last month, a factor which held down the over-all rise in consumer prices, the Labor Department said.

However, the Congressional Budget Office warned earlier this week that

> The budget office cited the danger that a resurgence of inflation, spurred by food and fuel prices, could slow the recovery or even lead to a new downturn in production and higher unemployment.

To guard against that possibility, the budget office suggested that Congress may want to consider new tax cuts and higher levels of federal spending to further boost the economy.

The administration, however, maintains that this would only lead to more inflation.

Solons closing tax loopholes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal approved by the House Ways and Means Committee would make it virtually impossible for a wealthy taxpayer to escape federal taxation

The proposal, approved 25 to 8 Thursday, would expand the reach of the minimum tax. It now produces about $180 million in revenue annually from about 30,000 persons. The panel's changes would produce $700 million from about 80,000 persons, the committee's tax experts predicted.

The saga of Sir Edward

The saga of a teddy bear dubbed Sir Edward proves again that Shakespeare knew what he was talking about. When he said of a little candle's beam, that is: "So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The good deed in question is the return of Sir Edward (who was so christened at a mock knighting ceremony during a stopover in England) to his rightful master, four-year-old Jamie Fowler. The happy reunion came at Los Angeles International Airport after the teddy bear, inadvertently left aboard when Jamie and his mother changed planes in Singapore last June, has logged more than 150,000 miles on flights all over the world.

En route as a crew mascot on a dozen different airlines, Sir Edward acquired a clutch of tags, flight wings and other badges of affection all intact when Jamie got him back. Sir Edward also came equipped with a logbook whose entries included such messages as "No luggage, only

Silly to make a big thing of it, no doubt. Still, it's pleasant that when the airline folks heard whose teddy bear they'd been tooling about the world they took pains to see that Sir Edward and Jamie Fowler got back together. It's a naughty world, all right - but this was a good deed, perhaps to be acknowledged some day in the foreword to Sir Edward's

Kissinger must shift gears

According to Winston Churchill, a statesman is a politican who can postpone a war for 24 hours. Even in the span of a day tempers have been known to cool. With "Jaw, jaw" replacing "War, war," new forces can come into play and the peace, no matter how precarious, might be stretched out for a month - or even, as the Egyptians have seemingly promised in the Sinai settlement, for three years.

This column recalling that Egypt's President Anwar Sadat boasted about his duplicity in the days preceding the Yom Kippur War, has its fingers crossed about the ultimate success of the Sinai pact. Yet, grudgingly, one has to give Henry Kissinger credit for a statesmanlike postponement of what could, in the worst event, be Armageddon.

The problem of "what next" will be Kissinger's real test. He is being assailed by the perfectionists on all sides. Former State Department bigwig George Ball is against him because the agreement commits the U.S. to underwriting the peace without making any disposition of such things as the Palestinian and Golan Heights questions. My brother columnist, the estimable John Roche, worries about the Israeli loss of the Abu Rudeis oil fields. The New York Times's Anthony Lewis, who extends a welcome to the pact in general, thinks the exclusion of the Soviet Union from Kissinger's diplomacy is a "questionable

Blood donors get protection

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohioans who sell or donate blood get better protection from hepatitis and other health hazards under a state law that became effective today.

The new law was written primarily to regulate a new type of collection center those that keep only the plasma after reinjecting the cells back into the donor's bloodstream.

Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and other sponsors said today's unemployment and economic crunch helped underscore the need. new system known as 'plasmapheresis,' lets donors sell blood as often as once a week-in contrast to the conventional method that requires a several week waiting period for the blood to reconstitute it-

Stinziano said the need for the bill became apparent in 1974 with the advent of plasmapheresis centers in Ohio's major cities. Because they were only casually regulated by the federal government, conditions in some were allowed to become unsanitary.

At one point, about three dozen cases of infectious hepatitis in the Akron area were blamed on centers there. A check gave plasmapheresis centers only a regular basis.'

certification are placed in the hands of the State Health Department, with the centers required to meet existing standards of the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Among other things, the centers — of which there are 21 in Ohio's major cities — must certify that a donor has shown a negative result in a special test for hepatitis or other serious disease including syphillis.

Centers must have a licensed physician as medical director, and a physician, registered nurse, or medical technologist on duty at all times when plapaheresis is being performed.

The 21 existing centers have 90 days from the effective date of the bill to apply for certification by the health department, and must renew their certificates annually. Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HAPPINESS, I HAVE DISCOVERED, IS NEARLY ALWAYS A REBOUND FROM HARD WORK. — DAVID GRAYSON

Dear Abby:

Second spouse says:

step-kids go or he will

DEAR ABBY: I was divorced with six children for nine years. Then I married a man who is 10 years my junior. My two youngest children made their home with us. (All of the others were on their own.) The last two are now 17 and 18 and neither is sufficiently mature to leave home. Maybe it's my fault for not pushing them hard enough, but the fact remains that they still need me. My husband has issued an ultimatum: "Either your kids go or I do. I am tired of supporting them!" Abby, my love for this man is in-describable, but I can't send my children away. How much do I owe my husband? My children? Myself?

TORN APART DEAR TORN: In my opinion, a man who would give his wife such an ultimatum knows that she will choose her children-which is what I think he really wants.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my boyfriend is 22. We've gone together for a year. He lives 30 miles from my home and drives over to be with me about four times a week.

He says he loves me, but we do fight a lot. And every time we have a fight, he asks me to give him all the presents back that he gave me, plus a check to cover the expense of gas for all the trips he made to see me.

Do you think we should take a vacation from each other for a while? He wants to marry me, but I'm not sure we can get along with each other. If we do break up, should I return his gifts plus the money for gas? CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: A "vacation" from each other is a splendid idea. Date others and hope that he grows up in the meantime. If you break up, return his gifts and tell him the gas was on him. DEAR ABBY: This is trivial, I suppose, but I need a "professional" answer and don't know where else to turn. I hope you can help me. A baby was born illegitimately in our family, and he was given up for adoption when he was one-week-old. The natural grandmother insists on counting this child as her "grandchild." She even included him in a family obituary! I think she is wrong. Your comments, please. Thank you.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: A child given up for adoption assumes the name of his adoptive parents and becomes a legal part of THEIR family. Of course the memory of the child may linger in the mind of the natural grandparent, but he is no longer legally part of that family.

goes on. Dr. Kubler-Ross, whose work and writings on counselling persons near death have become recognized as prime guides among professional colleagues, cites her changed outlook in recent articles and lectures.

She says her conclusions are based largely on experiences with dying persons, including conversations with those who had been declared clinically dead but afterward were revived by medical means.

"I now do believe in a life after death, beyond a shadow of a doubt," she says. The Swiss-born psychiatrist, now of Chicago, told a recent conference on death, dying and living at the Quaker Yokefellow Institute at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind.: "None of the patients who have had a death experience — and returned — are ever afraid to die.

She said there is a "common denominator" of experiences for dying people, both for children and the aged, for the religious and non-religious.

At first, she said, "there is an experience of floating out of the body" in which the "dying person perceives what is happening to his or her corpse' and observes such things as "heroic attempts" of others to resuscitate it. Additionally, she said, there comes a feeling of "peace and wholeness" and among psychiatrists, chaplains and pastors dealing with dying persons. She lectures widely.

She says she had little traditional religious background, but in a 1974 book, "Questions and Answers on Death and Dying," she says: "Working with dying patients over many years has made me much more religious than I have ever been.

In her analysis, she says most dying people move through five stages of emotions - denying death, anger at it, bargaining about it, depression and acceptance - not always in that order.

Wedding in Falls Church, Va., of interest to friends here

Annandale, Va., became the bride of Larry Gene Ankrom of Alexandria, Va., in the First Christian Church in Falls Church, Va. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Patterson of Annandale, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ankrom of New Holland.

The Rev. Jack Austin performed the double-ring ceremony before the altar decorated with yellow and white daisies and dragon mums. The family pews were marked with white satin bows and yellow mums.

Mrs. Barbara Hansen, organist, presented a half-hour of wedding selections preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bridal satin gown with a lace bodice. The long puffed sleeves had lace inserts and daisy applique trimmed the gown and double veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses.

Miss Libby Collota of Annandale served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Anne Killion of Washington D.C., Miss Pamela Akrom of New Holland, sister of the groom, Miss Madeline Gravette and Miss Sarah Patterson of Annandale, sister of the bride. The attendants were in yellow, dotted Swiss, empire-waisted floor length gowns. They wore widebrimmed hats trimmed with white daisies, and each carried natural wicker baskets of yellow and white orchid corsages. Immediately following the wedding, a buffet-dance was held at The Country Squire in Seven Corners, Va.

Miss Patricia Patterson, sister of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a floor-length dress similar to the at-

The new Mrs. Ankrom wore a peach colored pantsuit and the corsage from her bridal bouquet when the couple left for a honeymoon in Florida.

The bride graduated from Jefferson High School in Falls Church, Va., and is a student at Strayer College. She is also employed at Lenders, Inc. Her husband graduated from Miami Trace High School and Bowling Green State University where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity. He works for the U.S. Government in Washington, D.C. The young couple is at home to their friends at 4149 S. Four Mile Run Drive, Apt. No. 2, Arlington,

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer NEW YORK (AP) - After "Kojak" this Sunday night, CBS will emit a new cop series called "Bronk." The move is sort of like having an Edsel following a Rolls-Royce.

The new show stars Jack Palance, the fine screen villain who hit it big years ago in "Shane," the classic Western in which he wore basic black, spoke softly and carried a big .45.

In "Bronk," he's clad in California casual, still speaks softly, but now totes a .38, perhaps to indicate the lesser caliber of his new endeavor. A BB gun would give a better indication.

Palance plays Lt. Alex Bronkov, a police lieutenant who drives a rebuilt 1955 Cadillac and is assigned to special duty on the staff of a "reform" mayor in mythical Ocean City, Calif.

In Sunday's opener, a wandering, laborious three-murder yarn, he sets out to locate and protect a man he doesn't know from a gunsel the mob

Exactly why the mob hired this torpedo isn't made clear until near the end, when we learn why the mob was so slay the man Bronk is trying to save. I shouldn't give away the beginning, but it starts in a motel restaurant when a swarthy young man asks a guy at the next table for a match. "Sure," the guy says, and supplies a flame. Whereupon the swarthy gent beats him up, accusing him of having "called me a dago." He angrily exits, but not before an alert waiter sees a .45 cannon the baddie has beneath his coat.

Police are summoned, burst into the lad's motel room and arrest him for assault. At headquarters, they check records and find he has a seven-page rap sheet and a rep as a professional killer.

When the mayor learns of this, he says disbelievingly, "A syndicate hit man - in my town." He doesn't see the bright side. It could have been a city budget planner from New York.

Anyhow, Bronk and his fellow officer (Tony King) are set loose to find out whom the hit man is supposed to dispatch.

We learn the hit man couldn't find his intended victim, but knew Bronk probably could. So he got into trouble deliberately, planning to follow Bronk mad it actually hired two torpedoes to to the intended victim.

EFT could soon become household of a three-part series of stories on Electronics Funds Transfer, a new banking service that government and banking officials say is needed to stop the rapid increases in the number of checks being written and to avoid a paperwork processing crisis.

Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) is not yet a household term, probably because it has not yet affected many people. But all that is about to change.

If the experts are right, nearly everyone who has a checking account, and even many who don't, could be using EFT within a year. "It is inevitable, simply because of the benefits for every person and every business," says William O. Anderson, president of the Columbus Regional Automated Funds Transfer System (CRAFTS)

CRAFTS with 124 member commercial banks, including all those in Fayette County, coordinates efforts for implementing EFT in the 27 central and southeastern Ohio counties that represent the Columbus zone of the fourth Federal Reserve District.

What EFT can do is very simple. according to Anderson. It can pay your money or allow you to pay your bills, automatically with no paper checks

More than 4000 employes in the area served by CRAFTS are already having their salaries or wages deposited at their banks for them electronically as a pilot program. According to Anderson, those involved like the program because they do not have to worry about losing their checks, don't have to wait in long lines to do their banking.

"EFT means your pay is deposited on time every pay period, even if you are sick, traveling on business, on vacation, or just too busy to get to the bank." he said.

Bank employes and a few other people have been paid without checks in the past, but they were usually restricted to deposits in the same bank their employer used, and all the processing was done by hand.

"We are now able to handle everything electronically through an automated clearing house," Anderson said. "That means we eliminate a lot of hand processing and the employee's pay can be deposited wherever he designates

The federal government has also recognized the benefits of direct deposit of payroll, and could eventually pay all its employes this way. growing number of uniformed Air

Force personnel in the CRAFTS area is already being paid in this manner, and the same service will probably be made available to thousands of area Social Security recipients later this year. The other use for EFT is to pay bills. Very soon, you will be able to pay many of those standard monthly bills without writing a check every month — utility budget payments, insurance payments, house, car and other loan payments.

"There is no danger of you forgetting to pay a bill, and you will not have to spend the time and money to write the check and mail it," Anderson explains. "Your bank statement will be your proof of payment, instead of a cancelled check.

Anderson reports that several companies are already exploring the possibilities of setting up these preauthorized electronic payments for their customers.

"EFT is simply another step in improving our transfers of funds— our financial communication - much like what the telephone has done for our personal communications." Anderson says. "As the telephone gives us a fast electronic alternative to writing letters, EFT gives people and businesses similar alternative to writing checks.

And, perhaps the best aspect of EFT for the consumer is that it will not raise the cost of checking accounts, and might even lower them. "We believe EFT will result in cost savings by eliminating a lot of paperwork, Anderson said. "If so, competition will see to it that the savings are passed on to the consumer.'

Anderson does not believe that the use of paper checks will be eliminated. at least not int he foreseeable future. 'There are some situations,' he said, 'in which EFT would not be best, just as there are time when it is better to write a letter than to call. But if we can hold down the volume of paper check processing, we will all benefit. EFT. According to Anderson and other banking experts, it is a simple, safe, efficient and convenient step forward that will benefit people, businesses and the banking industry.

You will get a chance to make your own judgement, and probably very soon. The use of EFT by the businesses you work for or buy from is inevitable.

(The final segment of this series will deal with the future impact of EFT)

CIA toxin tested at Cincinnati lab

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The retired bacteriology chief of Taft Laboratories said shellfish toxin was tested here for the CIA in 1965 but neither he nor his staff thought the mission was peculiar.

Dr. Paul Kabler said he remembered that about five grams of the toxic material was brought to the laboratory in 1965 for testing.

"They were just doing some testing here," Kabler said. "We didn't make any of it.'

Dr. Kabler said he does not believe there are any records of the toxin and that his information was based only on his recollection

The Taft Laboratories involvement surfaced after CIA Director William Colby told the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence that 11 grams of the shelfish toxin found in the CIA inventory had been produced in U.S. Public Health Service Laboratories in Cincinnati, Ohio and Narraganset, R.I. Testimony before the Senate committee indicated 11 grams of the shellfish toxin is capable of killing hundreds of thousands of people.

Kabler retired in 1971 and said he could not remember any of the scientists involved or who in the Public Health Service ordered the tests.

"Why? Is this a hot issue now," he demanded, after being asked how the Public Health Service could get involved in testing poisons for the CIA. Kabler said it was a "once only project, although the laboratory was continually involved in testing one thing or another for the government. "No, I didn't think it was peculiar at all." he said.

Kabler said he could not remember who in Washington ordered the tests conducted or why no records were kept. "Well, the years go by and you forget. I can't say who ordered it. Kabler remembered, however, that his staff did not produce the material. He said the toxins were made at Ft. Detrick, Md., and aproximately five grams were brought to the Taft labo-

Gretchen Krieger is one of 12 girls in Ohio selected for the 1976 Ohio 4-H fashion board. Selection was made during the 4-H style revue at the 1975 Ohio State Fair

Gretchen, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kreiger, Jeffersonville-West Lancaster Road, is a member of the Silly Stitchers 4-H Club, advised by Mrs. Carol Wissinger and Mrs. Lillian Fisher. An eight-year 4-H member, Gretchen was named the top model in the Fayette County 4-H senior style revue and represented the county in the dress-up outfit project at the state fair. She is a senior at Miami Trace High School, where she is active in several groups.

As a fashion board member, Gretchen will be planning and carrying out activities that will promote the 4-H clothing program until September 1976. She and other board members were selected on the basis of clothing experiences, appearance of their 4-H outfit, modeling poise, and ability to express the image of a well-dressed teenager. Selection was made by a panel of judges and the 1975 fashion board members, according to Jack Sommers, Fayette County 4-H Extension agent.

Taft and Glenn split on pay hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ohio Sens. Robert Taft Jr. and John Glenn cast opposite votes Thursday as the Senate rejected 53-39 a resolution that would have given federal employes, including members of Congress, an 8.66 per cent pay raise rather than the 5 per cent recommended by President Ford.

Taft voted for the higher raise while Glenn opposed it.

Glenn said later he voted against the proposal because the 8.66 per cent hike would have cost an additional $1.4 billion, which was not within the financial limits set by the Senate.

"It's critical that we get a handle on federal spending and avoid budgetbusting that will inflate the economy, create more red ink on the federal budget and drive interest costs even higher," Glenn said.

timistic to predict that the coal gasification process for producing natural gas will be in use by 1980, members of the Ohio Gas Association were told Thursday.

Ralberg H. Murray, vice president of CNG Energy Co., said it could be as long as 10 years between the time a coal gasification project is begun and the plant is in operation.

Speaking at the association's annual meeting at Atwood Lodge, Murray estimated it will take five years to design and build a plant, four to seven years for coal mine development and three to four years for preliminary

Because it would cost up to $800 million to build a plant capable of producing 250 million cubic feet of gas per day, such a project would have to have the financial support of the federal government, Murray said.

About 80 gas association members, representing natural gas companies, gas transporters and the firms that supply them, were on hand for Thursday's session.

Other speakers were Francis H. Wright, board chairman of East Ohio Gas Co., and Cesar DeLeon, director of the federal Office of Pipeline Safety.

Wright called upon the natural gas industry to better inform the public about the problems its faces because of inflation and government regulations.

He urged association members to increase efforts to communicate the industry's position on such topics as the purchased gas adjustment clause, the importance of gas as a source of energy, deregulation of gas prices and justment clause, which allows gas companies to pass wholesale price increases on to consumers, "all of our companies would go bankrupt," Wright

"East Ohio's wholesale gas costs increased 25 per cent, or $51 million, last year," Wright said. "That's more than twice the profit we earned."

Wright said natural gas provides one third of the nation's energy, including more than 50 per cent of the energy used by industry. He said 41 per cent of the primary energy production in the United States comes from gas compared with 30 per cent for oil, 23 per cent for coal and about 6 per cent for all other sources, including nuclear and hydro power.

Wright contended that the 21-year-old wellhead price of 52 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas established by the federal government has forced 12,000 producers out of business. He pointed out that proposals in Congress for deregulation would apply only to new gas discoveries, not the longterm contracts which provide most natural

On the subject of profits, Wright said East Ohio received "a bare 5 cents in profit last year" from every dollar received from customers.

UAW leaders plan fight against Rhodes bond issues

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Thursday extolled his fourpoint economic package on the November ballot, but his request for support was rejected by state United Auto Workers leaders who voted to campaign against the issues.

The governor spoke here to about 300 members of the UAW's state Community Action Program. Various delegates said they thought Rhodes' program would shift more of the tax burden from industry to individual taxpayers and workers.

The governor said his proposal to provide tax incentives for industries will result in a total of 500,000 permanent jobs, 260,000 of which would be

He said the tax abatement proposal to induce industries to locate or expand in Ohio would create enough jobs to compensate municipalities for any tax revenues they may not collect. Besides tax incentives for industry. the governor's four-point package for economic recovery proposes issuance of revenue bonds to stimulate the housing industry and bonds for transportation and aid to cities. The $1.75 billion transportation issue would be financed by an increase in the gasoline tax and the $2.75 billion bond issues for cities would be financed by an increase in the state sales tax.

The union leaders said they would hold another meeting to map out their strategy to defeat the ballot issues.

AMERICAN REVOLUTION 1776

1976

THE SPIRIT OF '76

SYMBOLIC of the spirit of the American revolution, the ragged, ill fed and poorly equipped Continental Army marched into battle to the tune of drums and fife sustained by a passion for freedom. This great idea, that men were willing to die for made them finally unconquerable.

The original "Spirit of '76" painting, by Willard for the Nation's Centennial celebration, vividly captures the spirit and determination of the Continental Army.

"SPIRIT OF AMERICA" PERSONALIZED CHECKS

In celebration of the Bicentennial, we are pleased to offer a new, full color package of checks featuring ten memorable events of the Revolutionary Period. A special Spirit of America box and cover are included. Stop in and see these attractive checks soon.

History, legends offered in southeast Ohio

Southeastern Ohio is many things to historic cities in Ohio. Native oldest building in the northwest river's sights and sounds, as he goes many people. It's the natural beauty of rolling hills and the majestic Ohio are eager to share their city's history River; the sweat and toil of the glass blowers, the height of man's creative genius; and the history and legends of early Ohio that are unparalleled anywhere else in the state. But most of all, southeastern Ohio is Marietta. . . for that's where it all begun.

On a misty, spring morning in 1788, General Rufus Putnam led 48 men to the banks of the Muskingham River and founded the first city in the Northwest Territory. Marietta has since become one of the most important Mariettans are proud of this fact, and with interested visitors.

For this reason, the Marietta tourist bureau has made available an "Adventure Tour" brochure, offering a unique walking or driving tour of the city's significant historic landmarks. Winding in and around the streets and alleys of this old river-town, you can see such historic points of interest as the Rufus Putnam landing, the First Congregational Church, the Sacra Via, and the Ohio Company Land Office, the

Territory Perhaps the highlight of the tour, however, and the place where Marietta's history is brought altogether for the visitor, is the Campus Martius Museum, located at

Second and Washington street.

Here, contained within the walls of the museum is the 200-year-old home of Rufus Putnam, restored to its original condition. Visitors can get a vivid account of how crude and simplistic the living conditions were at that time, as costumed guides interpret the fascinating history of the various, fully-furnished rooms. Outside the house, visitors can explore the sturdy exterior, including the famous bell Queen Marie Antoinette gave General Putnam at the beginning of his exploration. Then, for a more detailed study of the town's history, enter the rooms adjacent to the Putnam house, which displays various exhibits of the early arts and crafts and military history of those first settlers, including the nation's finest display of early surveying instruments.

To visualize the lifestyle and industry of that period, wander downstairs, where storefronts of a cooper's shop, a pharmacy, an old printing press and quilt displays bring early Marietta back to life.

No history of Marietta is complete, however, without including the growth and development of the famous Ohio River and the Ohio River Museum, on Washington and Front Street, is an excellent way of reliving those early days. The contemporary exhibit buildings, situated on the banks of the Muskingham conform to the environment of the river. Built on stilts to accommodate the seasonal floods, the museum is a series of three separate structures, linked together by elevated walkways, so that the visitor can stay in constant touch with the

from one building to the next.

The units are arranged in chronological progression, beginning with a thorough explanation of the creation of the river system, taking the visitor through the "Golden Age of the Steamboat," a fascinating look at the famous "floating palaces," through a collection of models, and finally to the "Impact of Man on the River.

"The River," a 16 projector multimedia presentation is given every 30 minutes in the small auditorium, located in the center of the museum.

Anchored a few feet away, is the W.P. Snyder, Jr., one of the last steampowered sternwheelers to ply America's inland waterways. Visitors are welcome to "come aboard" and examine the engine room and pilothouse, similar to the ones used on the sternwheelers of Mark Twain's day. An attendant is on duty to answer your questions.

If the Snyder gets in your blood, and you're dreaming of taking a cruise on one of the old boats, you have only to walk a few more feet and board the VALLEY GEM, a diesel powered replica of a sternwheeler passenger packetboat. The VALLEY GEM will take you and your family for a relaxing hour-long cruise down the Muskingham. You can dream of the days when these boats were the floating palaces of the river.

The Ohio River Museum and Campus Martius are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission for each site is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children, or a special combination ticket can be purchased for $1.25 for adults, $75 cents for children.

Just across the Ohio River Bridge, at the foot of Second Street in Williamstown, West Virginia, is the Fenton Art

Hillsboro man builds own chopper

HILLSBORO - Some people build ships in bottles, others build model airplanes. But Homer Bell builds helicopters.

Sometimes, he literally drops in on friends who live in rural areas and who have backyards large enough for him to land his chopper

Materials to build the craft came in a kit manufactured by Rotorway, Inc., of Phoenix, Ariz., and Bell purchased one package of the kit at a time until he completed construction.

"It took 20-25 packages to build the thing. The air frame package came first, and had to be welded together," he said. Bell constructed the device without prior knowledge of welding or mechanics, he claimed.

"I think anyone who is halfway mechanically-minded could have built it," he explained. "The company provided easy instructions. Whenever I hit a problem, I called them and they were very responsive.

Although Bell didn't have serious problems during the construction period, he had a minor one afterward.

The copter, under construction in the garage of his Hillsboro home, was too large to remove once he had finished work on it. After spending two years of work, he found it was just too large to get through the doors.

"First, I took the garage door off, hoping this would allow enough clearance. Finally, I realized the only way to get it out was to remove a few layers of brick above the garage. With this extra space, I could get it out." he

The copter, called "The Scorpion," has a cruising speed of 80 miles per hour and is powered by a 125horsepower engine. The cruising range is limited to 100 miles.

It is, however, only an experimental craft, but has been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The amateur-build category of flying machines permits home builders to construct and fly their own crafts.

However, at least 51 per cent of the total construction must be completed by the person applying for the experimental class permit. Under this category, the craft must be used for fun, transportation and education. It cannot be used commercially.

"The accomplishment I'm most proud of is that I taught myself to fly the helicopter with no outside instruction," Bell boasted, as he waxed the sides of the machine.

Before a pilot can fly with a passenger, though, he must complete 75 hours of flying time in a practice area. Currently, Bell has logged 88 hours. "I want to wait until I have a few more hours of time in before I take anyone for a ride," he said.

Recently, he won second place in the "Man and Machine" category at a contest in Oshkosh, Wis. The contest is sponsored annually by amateur builders.

Bell has found, though, that flying a helicopter can be dangerous. During a landing he damaged the tail roter. 'When I repaired it, I didn't replace the drive belt. So, I went spinning to the ground and damaged the frame, rotor and cabin," he said.

"Fortunately for me, I was only flying at a height of five feet,' he laughed.

Repairs took three months to complete a cost of $2,200. How does Mrs. Bell feel about her husband's expensive hobby? 'Well, I've just started taking my student pilot's training," she said.

Aerial survey eyes Appalachian faults

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)- An aerial survey is underway over four Appalachian states to take radarproduced images of faults in the earth's crust where reserves of natural gas may be hidden.

The radar technology, developed by Goodyear Aerospace Corp. in Akron, is being used to map parts of West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Virginia.

Morris B. Jobe, Goodyear Aerospace president, said Wednesday that the aerial survey must be followed by onthe ground exploration. Another official said it may be two years before additional natural gas may become available following the Appalachian Goodyear spokesmen said the big advantage of using the radar technology is that it allows technicians to view the terrain from an angle.

'This helps provide geologists with information on faults and other earth formations which cannot be seen as clearly on conventional photos," Jobe said

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) - Joe O'Brien, favored Nero's driver, took Thursday's rainout of the Little Brown

In fact, the silver-haired veteran said a probable muddy track today at the Delaware County Fairgrounds should affect Nero's 2-1 favoritism very little.

"Going on his past performances, Nero does very well on an off track," said O'Brien, leaning on a stable door and watching the consistent rain.

This season Nero has lost only twice. And both of his conquerors, Whata Baron and Osborne's Bret, were in against him in the tougher 10-pacer first division.

O'Brien said he has won every time with Nero on four occasions in 1975.

'The worst conditions were in the Joe Neville Memorial at Hazel Park. It was really muddy, just terrible," the Hall of Fame driver recalled. Nero still won, scoring a fifth straight victory in his slowest time (2:02 3-5) of 1975.

Fans early tor tickets

CINCINNATI (AP) - "I promised my son I would take him to at least one playoff game and I wanted to be sure I would get a ticket," said Mrs. Blair Talbott of Cincinnati, holding first place late Thursday night outside Riverfront Stadium.

The Cincinnati Reds today began over-the-counter ticket sales of 3,000 tickets for each of two National League Playoff games to be played here.

Mrs. Talbott was among more than 30 persons lined up Thursday night in hopes of getting at least four or the remaining seats when the windows opened at 10 a.m.

"I'm going to get mine for Saturday and will take my son, Ted, his friend David, and I guess I'll take my husband since he is at least doing the baby sitting tonight while I'm here."

The Reds said each person could buy up to four tickets, while they last, for either one of the games played Saturday, Oct. 4, or Sunday, Oct. 5.

Carlton won the game under pressure conditions, for a loss would have killed any flickering hopes the Phillies might have had to catch the Pirates in the National League East

As it is, it still may take a miracle. The Phillies pulled within six games of the Pirates, whose magic number for clinching the division remained at five.

In the other National League games, the Montreal Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0; the New York Mets defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Atlanta

Home runs by Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski backed Carlton's superb pitching. Carlton raised his record to 14-13 by taming the Pirates, striking out 11 and walking five.

The Pirates' Rennie Stennett, incidentally, continued to break records with his bat. He collected two hits Thursday night to tie the National League mark of 12 hits in three games, held by three other players. Previously, he belted seven hits in one game for a record and three more in another for a two-game mark of 10. Expos 5, Cardinals 0

Jim Dwyer singled, doubled and tripled while Gary Carter and Pete

Mackanin pounded home runs to lead Montreal over St. Louis. The Expos, completing a two-game sweep, made the most of seven hits off Cardinal right-hander Ron Reed, 12-12, who departed after six innings, and Harry who was greeted by Mackanin's solo homer in the seventh.

Mets 7, Cubs 5 Dave Kingman's club-record 35th home run of the season, a two-run shot in the bottom of the ninth inning, lifted New York past Chicago. The Mets, who spotted the Cubs a four-run lead in the first, tied up the game in the eighth when Kingman doubled and came home on Jesus Alou's pinch-hit single. and Joe Torre tripled home pinchrunner Bud Harrelson.

Rusty Staub hit his 18th homer of the season, a two-run shot in the fifth, for the first two Mets runs. Staub singled in the ninth before Kingman launched his game-winning blast and topped the team record of 34 homers set by Frank Thomas in 1962.

Royals 4, Twins 3 Amos Otis' tie-breaking single in a two-run seventh inning lifted Kansas City past Minnesota and helped the

Royals keep pace with Oakland. The KC seventh was also aided by a walk and two errors as Twins pitcher Eddie Bane threw away sacrifice bunts by

Fred Patek and Jim Wohlford. Indians 2, Tigers 1 Boog Powell slammed a solo home run in the fourth and singled home

Duane Kuiper, who had walked, in the first as Cleveland continued its lateseason winning ways. Detroit's lone run came in the seventh on Danny Meyer's homer, his eighth of the season, as winner Jim Bibby went the distance to post his seventh victory against 15 defeats.

Angels 5, Rangers 3 Andy Etchebarren's three-run homer in the sixth and Frank Tanana's routegoing seven-hitter gave the California Angels a come-from-behind victory over Texas. Etchebarren's fourbagger followed singles by Bruce Bochte and John Galaz.

Games to resume

NFL accord hammered out

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

When the leaves begin turning amber and gold and the air takes on the chill nip of fall, it's time for the National Football League season to begin.

But sometimes it takes more than a mere change of seasons to change men's minds.

This year it took 13 hours of gruelling labor negotiations preceded by 191/2 months of uncertainty, a hard-headed federal mediator who wouldn't give in to confusion or other hardheads, and the frightening threat of finally losing fan interest and dollars.

It wasn't until 9 a.m. EDT Thursday, less than three days before the scheduled start of the NFL's regular season, that a strike by five NFL teams began to crumble and the pro football season emerged, at least temporarily, from potential chaos.

Sargent Karch, executive director of the NFL Management Council; Ed Garvey, Karch's union counterpart, and the government's top labor troubleshooter, W.J. Usery, head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, emerged from their marathon session in New York to announce they had reached a "memorandum of agreement.'

It was more of a promise than an agreement. In essence, the Management Council and players' union were telling the players: If they would play football, the owners would give them a contract they could live with, and let bygones be bygones.

It worked. Almost immediately the New York Jets, one of the five striking teams, announced they would return to practice. Three more striking teams the Washington Redskins, Detroit Lions and New York Giants — followed suit. And shortly before 6 p.m. EDT, the New England Patriots, who began the series of wildcat walkouts six days ago, said they would return to the practice field.

Although details "memorandum of agreement" never were officially announced, Associated Press learned Thursday they were based on a sixpoint proposal made after an all-night session Monday in Washington, D.C. The names were the same; all that changed were the dates.

The albatross hanging around the necks of the NFL owners had been a contract that expired 191/2 months ago, on Jan. 31, 1974. When the Management Council promised to lay before the union a new, equitable proposal by Monday, Sept. 22, the albatross was

Players will get the contract the sixpoint proposal as amended at the 13same day that it is presented to union leadership in Chicago. From Chicago will follow an intricate timetable; the gist of it will insure the fans two weeks

Cleveland Browns ready

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Peters, meet Isaac Curtis.

The introduction comes Sunday, and it may only be in passing.

Peters, a rookie cornerback with the Cleveland Browns, gets his baptism of fire in the National Football League against Curtis, the chief demoralizer in Cincinnati's offensive arsenal.

And Curtis, the Bengals' greyhoundfast wide receiver, admits Peters may see a lot of him.

"Yes, I think we'll be working on him," said Curtis, whose 10 touchdowns last year ranked second only to Oakland's Cliff Branch "This is the regular season. You pick about the threat posed by Curtis. He has figured prominently in Cincinnati's three straight victories over the League contest, winning streaks highlight week's SCOL grid action

LION OFFENSIVE LEADER - Senior Randy Sparkman leads Washington C.H. in total offense with 108 yards rushing in just 14 carries. He also leads the Blue Lions in pass receiving having latched on to all four receptions for 40 yards in Washington's season opener.

Three unbeaten strings on the line and one league contest highlight South Central Ohio League grid action tonight.

Circleville, Miami Trace and Washington C.H. will be trying to protect their two-game winning streaks, and the Panthers seem to have drawn the toughest task as they square off against the Jackson Ironmen at

Circleville will host Athens in what could be a very close contest and the Blue Lions take on the hapless Westerville North Warriors at Gardner

Washington C.H. has the only league win, but Greenfield should join the Blue Lions after tonight's contest with SCOL newcomer Madison Plains.

Other games have Hillsboro at Zane Trace, Unioto at Adena and Wilmington hosting Purcell.

The three undefeated league schools are at or near the top in team offensive and defensive statistics. Miami Trace and Washington C.H. are tops in the offensive figures with the Panthers having amassed the most total yards with 583 while the Blue Lions lead the league in scoring with 49 points.

Defensively, Miami Trace, the only team unscored upon, leads in yielding the fewest total yards. The Panthers have given opponents only 202 yards in their two games. Greenfield is second giving up 265 yards to opponents. The Blue Lions lead in rushing yardage yielded as the opposition has mustered only 111 yards on the ground against Washington's 6-1 defense.

Circleville's Biff Bumgarner has picked up where he left off last season in two offensive departments. The allleague running back has scrambled for 285 yards on the ground and he has taken an early lead in the league scoring race with 20 points.

Wilmington's sophomore wonder Gary Williams is just behind Bumgarner in both departments with 177 yards rushing and 19 points.

Miami Trace's Art Schlichter is second to Bumgarner with 200 yards on the ground and fullback Rex Coe has 173. Hillsboro's Steve Kelch and Greenfield's Tony Anderson round out the league's top five rushers.

DOVER, Ohio (AP) - "Where's the football game?"

That question kept running through John Teynor's mind as he sat in the Crater Stadium stands while a marching band played on and on.

Teynor, who had driven here from his home in New Washington to see the Tuscarawas Catholic football team, coached by his brother Art, battle Jewett-Scio, thought he had arrived at halftime.

Finally, he learned from someone seated nearby that he was watching the Dover band review, featuring six high school bands.

"It was the longest halftime show I've ever seen," Teynor said later. "And the band . . . it filled half the stadium.

Teynor was told the game he wanted to see was being played at Quaker Stadium in New Philadelphia.

He dashed to his car and drove to Quaker Stadium, arriving just in time to catch the halftime show.

Three passengers in the Roush car complained of injuries but were not treated at the time. The 1972 model car was heavily damaged.

Police officers cited Harold H. Smith. 70, Rt. 5, Washington C.H. for reckless operation after his car struck a parked auto in the 800 block of Temple Street Thursday evening.

Smith was westbound on Temple Street when his car collided with the left front of a parked car owned by Ora Fitzpatrick of 832 E. Temple St., officers reported.

Damage was moderate.

No one was reported injured in a carbicycle accident investigated by sheriff's deputies. They reported a car driven by Kenneth L. Miller, 47, Frankfort and a bicycle ridden by James. L. Mossbarger, 11, Rt. 1, Greenfield, were both northbound on Good Hope-Lyndon Road, when Mossbarger rode his bicycle into the side of the Miller car.

The mishap occurred in Ross County. A large hog was killed when it ran into the the path of a car on Jones Road, just east of West Road, Thursday morning

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)-A federal ran another 150 yards before he stopprisoner who attempted to escape from deputies while changing planes at the Atlanta airport was shot and wounded Thursday, said James Henson, U.S. marshal

Henson identified the prisoner as Whitten Shanafelt, 19, who has been serving time in the Ohio State Reformatory

He was listed in good condition with a leg wound.

Henson said two deputies were escorting Shanafelt and had stopped at Hartsfield International Airport here to change planes from Birmingham, Ala., to Cleveland, when the prisoner started running

"They tried to catch him, but couldn't," said Henson, "then one of the deputies shot once. He (Shanafelt)

Glass Factory. Glass has long been a vital industry of this area, and to watch the making of the finished product constitutes a worthwhile sidetrip for your family. Here, you will see how the molten glass in the patient and skillful hands of the workers, using techniques that are centuries old, form some of the finest handmade glass in the country. The trip is not easily forgotten. Afterwards, browse in the Fenton Gift Shop, where many of the pieces made in the factory are on sale to the public. Tours are given Monday through Friday every 20 minutes, beginning at 9 a.m. and ending 7:20 p.m. and are completely free to the visitors.

The scenary down in the southern THURSDAY — Ham salad sandwich. section is spectacular. Its high hills and narrow valleys give the visitor a sense of space and timelessness. If you're out to explore the natural beauty of the area, or if you're looking for a peaceful and inexpensive place to stay while exploring historic Marietta, consider Forked Run State Park, an extensive camping area on a broad hilltop, overlooking the countryside. Complete with nature programs, boat docks, swimming and picnic shelters, it would be easy to spend one entire day at Forked Run just soaking in the beauty of southeastern Ohio.

Meanwhile, attorneys for both sides were to meet with Judge Herman Busse of Allen Circuit Court who issued an injunction at the school board's request Wednesday, ordering teachers to end the strike, which is forbidden by state law

Representatives of the 1,500-member Fort Wayne Teachers Association and the school board met late Thursday for the first time since the teachers went on strike Wednesday morning. The talks were adjourned Thursday night. Marvin Ross, FWTA director, said the two sides were still "far apart" but would meet again today.

GOP ponders loss in New Hampshire

WASHINGTON (AP) — This may be next year in the opening primary of the a season for political rebels.

And it is a time in which the campaign muscle of organized labor can be exercised more tellingly than ever

Those are the 1976 portents from New Hampshire's landslide decision to send Democrat John A. Durkin to the Senate, where he took his seat Thursday still promising to rock the boat.

It is risky at best to read election returns in one state as a barometer of national trends. But the ballots New Hampshire voters cast last Tuesday do offer polling-place evidence of what people are thinking some 14 months before the 1976 elections.

And those same voters will provide the first test of presidential candidates

Politicians in both parties think those voters are angry, frustrated with Washington and in a mood to vote against the government if they get a

That certainly was the choice Durkin offered them, and they took it, electing him by a 27,000-vote margin.

New Hampshire's 165,000 Republicans hold a 50,000 registration lead over the Democrats, but that was no help to GOP candidate Louis C. Wyman.

Wyman's strategists said after the special election defeat that their candidate was at a disadvantage because he was seen as the Washington man and because, as a five-term congressman, he never could shake that image.

Durkin said one of his big sellingpoints was the fact that he'd never been to Congress and had nothing to do with the system in Washington.

No less a conservative than New Hampshire's Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. said the outcome pointed to trouble for incumbents - including himself and President Ford.

George Young, Wyman's campaign manager, said the Republican trouncing was a measure of voter frustration, and the unexpectedly high turnout was evidence that the people are more riled up than anyone had

But Eddie Mahe Jr., executive director of the Republican National Committee, said he doubted there were national implications in the New Hampshire outcome.

He said Wyman was crippled because of his acknowledged role in arranging a 1972 campaign contribution by Mrs. Ruth Farkas, later named ambassador to Luxembourg by former President Richard M. Nixon. The matter is still under investigation by the Watergate special prosecutor. Mahe also said organized labor was a key to the big Democratic showing.

FDA turned shellfish toxin over to Army, agency says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said today it turned over a quantity of lethal shellfish toxin to the Army after overproducing the poison while searching for an antidote to it. The FDA statement shed more light on the possible source of the poison that was secretly kept by the Central Intelligence Agency in violation of presidential orders to destroy it.

The CIA had been working with the Army in experiments on shellfish toxin at Ft. Detrick, Md. After the presidential order to destroy it, 11 grams were transferred from Ft. Detrick to a CIA laboratory.

The FDA said it turned over 11 to 12 grams of the poison after over-producing it in a search for an antidote for paralytic shellfish poisoning. The FDA search resulted from a 1952 outbreak on the West Coast.

Experts say one gram of shellfish toxin could kill as many as 5,000 per-

The explanation of the possible source of the 11 grams was requested by the government's top health official, Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare. Cooper acted after disclosures to the Senate intelligence committee that some of the CIA stockpile was labeled "U.S. Public Health Service."

"Once we turned it over to the Army, it became classified and we don't know what happened to it. We don't know where our 11 grams are now," an FDA spokesman said.

The FDA said that after World War II the Army sought the assistance of the Public Health Service in developing biological and chemical warfare weapons because of the "implied as well as real health threats to the civilian population associated with the development of such weaponry."

Because of the need for standardized procedures it was "natural" that the Army and health service cooperated in the development of the procedures, antidotes for the poison and production of purified sources of the poison, the FDA said.

Eventually the FDA decided that it was not feasible to develop an antidote for human use, the statement said.

Dr. Edward Schantz, an acknowledged expert on shellfish toxin, told the Senate intelligence committee Thursday that the 11 grams represent approximately one third of the world's supply of the substance.

held on more than $1 million bail, Hearst replied, "I think so."

Terrence Hallinan, attorney for the newspaper heiress who was kidnaped by members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974, said he would seek reduction of the bail at a hearing today.

An FBI official said, meanwhile, that the sudden and dramatic capture of the heiress-turned-terrorist came by accident when police went to a house here seeking someone else. Miss Hearst and her comrades were arrested without resistance, officers said.

"Don't shoot, I'll go with you," San Francisco police officer Tim Casey quoted Miss Hearst as saying when he and another officer entered her hideout in a house in a middleclass residential section of the city.

"We said, 'Don't move.' Patty said, 'All right,' and we placed her under arrest," Casey said. "I asked her if she was glad it was over, and she just didn't say a word."

At the San Mateo County Jail, 35 miles south of here, where Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris were taken following arraignment, another inmate said the newspaper heiress answered a question as to how she was caught by saying, "I wish to hell I

'We were just sitting there and two Hearst as saying. Mrs. Broussard, 23, who was being released on bail on a parole violation charge, said she talked with Miss Hearst while the latter was being booked.

Earlier, Miss Hearst, who faces both state and federal charges, smiled broadly and waved at reporters as she left the San Francisco federal courthouse in a tightly guarded caravan. Mrs. Harris gave a clenched-fist salute as the car pulled away. The Harrises were arrested about an hour before Miss Hearst and Berkeley artist Wendy Yoshimura, who was turned over to Alameda County, Calif., authorities to face a charge of possession of explosives.

Stephen F. Soliah, a 27-year-old housepainter, also was arrested at the house where Miss Hearst was staying. The FBI said he would be charged with harboring fugitives. U.S. Atty. James L. Browning said more arrests on that charge might follow.

It appeared that the cross-country search for the only known surviving members of the SLA finally was ended by a combination of diligent police work and luck.

Paul Young, agent-in-charge of the FBI's Sacramento office, said his agents were seeking an unidentified person linked to the SLA and gave the San Francisco FBI addresses of several houses here.

Young said these included both a Bernal Heights house on Precita Street near where the Harrises were arrested while jogging down the street and the Upper Mission District house on Morse Street where Miss Hearst was cap-

"But we had no idea the Harrises and Miss Hearst were there," Young said. Authorities said Soliah was the brother of Kathy Soliah, a known associate of SLA members.

Miss Soliah, who dropped from sight several months ago, had been a visitor to Miss Yoshimura's imprisoned boyfriend, and there was speculation that when Sacramento agents gave the the two addresses to San Francisco, they may have been seeking Soliah for questioning.

Charles Bates, special agent-incharge of the FBI's San Francisco office, could not be reached for comment on Young's statement. But Bates said that for about two days the FBI had been watching the house where the Harrises were caught. "It was not a tip, just digging out people who might have information, on the periphery, building it up from that,'

Bates said.

An FBI agent guarding the Morse Street house, who declined to give his name, said about 10 automatic weapons were found inside. San Francisco Police Inspector Gary Kern said authorities searching the Precita Street house found several automatic weapons, 40 pounds of explosives and two gas masks.

Miss Hearst was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff on federal bank robbery charges, which carry a $500,000 bail, the same amount set for the federal firearms charge filed in Los Angeles.

For residences of 25 low-income families

Home winterization project set

Final plans for a home renovation program to be initiated by the Fayette County Community Action Commission have been announced by Roger Peercy, program planner.

With financial assistance from a federal grant, the Fayette County Community Action Commission will winterize approximately 25 homes of lowincome families beginning next

The goal of the program is twofold. In addition to helping area residents improve their homes, the project will conserve fuel used to heat the dwellings.

Eligible homes will receive weather stripping, roof insulation, storm windows, calking or other repairs necessary for the winter months.

All expenses, up to a maximum of $350 per home, will be borne by the Community Action Commission. There will be no charge to the recipients. A total grant of $5,799 has been authorized by the Community Services Administration for the project in Fayette County.

To be eligible, residents must own their home and be elderly, handicapped or living on a fixed income

In order to evaluate eligibility, an advisory board of local residents has been selected. Board members include Ray Warner, county commissioner; Mrs. Mae Graham, who will serve as chairwoman; Rick Stinson, Dayton Power and Light Co. employe; and Mrs. Sudie Ricketts and Mrs. Alberta Grabill.

John Henson, energy coordinator for the program, will interview prospective recipients, assess their needs, and present a tentative list of eligible recipients to the advisory board for approval.

Work on the homes selected will be done by Corky Wilt and Don Curtin of Curtin Heating and Electric Co., as well as members of the Adult Work and Training Program of the Community Action Commission.

Assistance in selecting homes which may be eligible will be obtained from the Fayette County Health Department and the Fayette County Welfare Department. However, interest from local residents will be appreciated. Peercy asks that if anyone knows a homeowner who may be eligible, he can contact the Community Action Commission Outreach office at 335-

Supreme Court honors Winegardner

Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner has been cited by the Ohio Supreme Court for having cleared the local court docket of contested drunken driving charges.

Chief Justice C. William O'Neill congratulated Judge Winegardner on helping to ease the court backlog which has plagued courts throughout the Presentation of the award to judges who have current dockets was made at the Judicial Conference Annual Meeting earlier this month, but poor health prohibited Winegardner from attending. An honorary plaque was sent to the judge, however.

Winegardner praised his office staff which was responsible for processing all the contested drunken driving cases. Each case involves a great deal of paperwork, and the secretaries have done an outstanding job, he said. He praised the work of Mrs. Sue

Anderson and Mrs. Rosemary Rinehart in particular. These two are primarily responsible for the work on such cases, and they have done exceptionally well, The judge emphaiszed the amount of paperwork which has resulted from increasing numbers of cases each year. "When I took office this court collected less than $45,000 per year in fines," he said, "This year we have collected $20,000 per month."

Judge Winegardner who has presided in Washington C.H. Municipal Court for 13 years, will retire in December.

OUTSTANDING SERVICE - Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner holds an honorary plaque he received this week from Ohio Supreme Court Justice C. William O'Neill for outstanding service to the Ohio court system in 1975. Judge Winegardner credits the Municipal Court secretarial staff as being instrumental in winning the award. The staff members are, left to right, Ann O'Conner, Marsha Edgington, Rosemary Rinehart, Mary Belle Cockerill and Ruth Burden. Sue Anderson, another member of the staff, was absent when the picture was taken.

Slowdown in inflation seen

WASHINGTON (AP) Consumer prices rose only two-tenths of 1 per cent in August, the smallest monthly rise in inflation in three years, the government reported today.

Projected on a yearly basis, the figure for last month would indicate an annual inflation rate of only 2.4 per

The August price report was welcome news following July's explosive 1.2 per cent jump in retail prices and an eight tenths of 1 per cent increase in June. But government analysts said it was too soon to determine whether the slowdown was the beginning of a trend.

With the moderation of inflation last month, wage earners also saw their while a strong economic upturn is first increase in real spendable earnings in three months. Real earnings over the past year also were up for the first time in any year-to-year period in more than two years.

Food prices, which rose sharply in June and July, showed no increase last month, a factor which held down the over-all rise in consumer prices, the Labor Department said.

The budget office cited the danger that a resurgence of inflation, spurred by food and fuel prices, could slow the recovery or even lead to a new downturn in production and higher unemployment.

To guard against that possibility, the budget office suggested that Congress may want to consider new tax cuts and higher levels of federal spending to further boost the economy.

The administration, maintains that this would only lead to more inflation.

Solons closing tax loopholes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal approved by the House Ways and Means Committee would make it virtually impossible for a wealthy taxpayer to escape federal taxation legally. The proposal, approved 25 to 8 Thursday, would expand the reach of the minimum tax. It now produces about $180 million in revenue annually from about 30,000 persons. The panel's changes would produce $700 million from about 80,000 persons, the committee's tax experts predicted.

The panel adopted the proposal as part of a wide-raging tax revision bill being drafted for House action later this year.

Existing law provides for a minimum

Postcards pose problem

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)- Postal workers here are wondering what to do about 850,000 obsolete postcards.

The eight-cent postcards are obsolete because postal rates for the cards have been reduced to seven cents.

This week the workers began burning the cards, but their chore was discontinued when employes realized it would take too long to destroy the stock in an incinerator.

A Cleveland post office official said the cards were ordered destroyed because it would cost too much to store

Postal workers still are exploring ways to destroy what's left of $68,000 worth of postcards.

The saga of Sir Edward

The saga of a teddy bear dubbed Sir Edward proves again that Shakespeare knew what he was talking about. When he said of a little candle's beam, that is: "So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The good deed in question is the return of Sir Edward (who was so christened at a mock knighting ceremony during a stopover in England) to his rightful master, four-year-old Jamie Fowler. The happy reunion came at Los Angeles

International Airport after the teddy bear, inadvertently left aboard when Jamie and his mother changed planes in Singapore last June, has logged more than 150,000 miles on flights all over the world

such messages as "No luggage, only the bear essentials.'

Silly to make a big thing of it, no doubt. Still, it's pleasant that when the airline folks heard whose teddy bear they'd been tooling about the world they took pains to see that Sir Edward and Jamie Fowler got back together. It's a naughty world, all right - but this was a good deed, perhaps to be acknowledged some day in the foreword to Sir Edward's travel memoirs.

A WORD EDGEWISE By John P. Roche Kissinger must shift gears

statesman is a politican who can postpone a war for 24 hours. Even in the span of a day tempers have been known to cool. With "Jaw, jaw" replacing "War, war," new forces can come into play and the peace, no matter how precarious, might be stretched out for a month — or even, as the Egyptians have seemingly promised in the Sinai settlement, for three years. This column recalling that Egypt's President Anwar Sadat boasted about his duplicity in the days preceding the Yom Kippur War, has its fingers crossed about the ultimate success of the Sinai pact. Yet, grudgingly, one has to give Henry Kissinger credit for a statesmanlike postponement of what diplomacy is a

According to Winston Churchill, a could, in the worst event, be Armageddon.

The problem of "what next" will be Kissinger's real test. He is being assailed by the perfectionists on all sides. Former State Department bigwig George Ball is against him because the agreement commits the U.S. to underwriting the peace without making any disposition of such things as the Palestinian and Golan Heights questions. My brother columnist, the estimable John Roche, worries about the Israeli loss of the Abu Rudeis oil fields. The New York Times's Anthony Lewis, who extends a welcome to the pact in general, thinks the exclusion of the Soviet Union from Kissinger's "questionable element.'

All of the points raised by All, Roche, Lewis and Company could prove to have a depressing validity if Henry Kissinger remains committed to the pattern of diplomacy he has used to wangle the Sinai accord. But it is not written in the desert stars that the Syrians, the Palestine liberationists, the Iraqis, the Libyans and King Hussein of Jordan must be handled as Egypt's Sadat was handled.

It is a philosophical cliche that he who says "a" must also say "b." But if the cliche is to remain valid, the particularity of the "b" must be contained in the generality of the "a." To bring things down to existing cases, the Golan Heights and the Palestinian West Bank of the Jordan must be considered geographically comparable to the Sinai desert if the "a-b" applicability of the rule is to govern Kissinger's next step.

The comparability of the different regions is, of course, just not there. One can go by car from the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee to the crest of the Golan Heights in considerably less time than it takes to reach the UN Building in Manhattan from the Bronx end of the Triboro Bridge. On the other hand, the Sinai, beyond and below the Negev, is as vast and trackless as the interior of Nevada.

Even though the Israelis have been cajoled into yielding two important passes and the Abu Rudeis oil development to the Egyptians, there is still room for plenty of military maneuver in the wilderness that baffled Moses for so long in his efforts to reach the Promised Land. As long as the Israelis maintain their superiority in tank warfare (the requisite air cover included), they will hardly be overwhelmed from the south.

And, while it may be true that the U.S., with its Mediterranean navy cannot necessarily guarantee oil delivery at Haifa docks to compensate for the lost Abu Rudeis oil, it is just as obvious that, even if the Israelis had kept possession of the oil wells, they could be knocked out almost instantaneously by the Soviet navy from the Red Sea. If Kissinger is to be blamed for Israeli oil vulnerability, shuttle diplomacy had nothing to do with it. It was a built-in part of the preliminary decision to permit the reopening of the Suez Canal.

The interlinked questions of the Suez and Sinai involved the two principals (Egypt and Israel) with Kissinger as the mutually accepted intermediary. But in the constricted north, where the Palestinian guerrillas raid from Lebanon bases into Israeli territory that could be dominated from a recaptured Golan Heights and where Jordanese armies are only a stone's throw from Israeli north-south communications, many parties must be placated.

Shuttle diplomacy, which depends on intimate tete-a-tetes and the establishment of man-to-man trust, can hardly be invoked to bring the Palestinians' Arafat, the Syrian extremists, and Jordan's King Hussein to a workable compromise. The "northern" question is one for a Big Power conclave at Geneva, for it is something that will never be settled until Moscow and Washington decide on a formula for restraining the flow of arms to their respective clients.

The time has come for Henry Kissinger to shift gears. If he can do it, the "peace" might be stretched out, say, from three years to six while the Geneva parleying goes on and on and on. That is about all that could be expected in Washington from any mortal human being.

Blood donors get protection

By ROBERT E. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohioans who sell or donate blood get better protection from hepatitis and other health hazards under a state law that became effective today.

The new law was written primarily to regulate a new type of collection center — those that keep only the plasma after reinjecting the cells back into the donor's bloodstream.

Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and other sponsors said today's unemployment and economic crunch helped underscore the need. The new system known as "plasmapheresis," lets donors sell blood as often as once a week-in contrast to the conventional method that requires a several week waiting period for the blood to reconstitute itself properly Stinziano said the need for the bill became apparent in 1974 with the advent of plasmapheresis centers in Ohio's major cities. Because they were only casually regulated by the federal government, conditions in some were allowed to become unsanitary.

At one point, about three dozen cases of infectious hepatitis in the Akron area were blamed on centers there. A check showed that the Federal Inspection Bureau of Biotics in Washington, D.C., gave plasmapheresis centers only a cursory check, "once or twice a year with little or no follow up, they weren't around to react," to what was done," Stinziano said.

Under the new law, inspection and certification are placed in the hands of the State Health Department, with the centers required to meet existing standards of the Federal Food and Drug Administration

Among other things, the centers - of which there are 21 in Ohio's major cities - must certify that a donor has shown a negative result in a special test for hepatitis or other serious disease including syphillis.

Centers must have a licensed physician as medical director, and a physician, registered nurse, or medical technologist on duty at all times when plapaheresis is being performed.

The 21 existing centers have 90 days from the effective date of the bill to apply for certification by the health department, and must renew their certificates annually. Each center has to be inspected at least once a year, and be open for an unannounced inspection at any time during normal working hours.

Stinziano said the law better protects "those who both give and receive blood, and assures that sound medical procedures will be followed on a regular basis."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Abby:

Dear

step-kids go or he will

Second spouse says:

DEAR ABBY: I was divorced with six children for nine years. Then I married a man who is 10 years my junior. My two youngest children made their home with us. (All of the others were on their own.)

The last two are now 17 and 18 and neither is sufficiently mature to leave home. Maybe it's my fault for not pushing them hard enough, but the fact remains that they still need me.

My husband has issued an ultimatum: "Either your kids go or I do. I am tired of supporting them!" Abby, my love for this man is indescribable, but I can't send my children away. How much do I owe my husband? My children? Myself?

TORN APART DEAR TORN: In my opinion, a man who would give his wife such an ultimatum knows that she will choose her children-which is what I think he really wants.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my boyfriend is 22. We've gone together for a year. He lives 30 miles from my home and drives over to be with me about four times a week.

He says he loves me, but we do fight a lot. And every time we have a fight, he asks me to give him all the presents back that he gave me, plus a check to cover the expense of gas for all the trips he made to see me.

Do you think we should take a vacation from each other for a while? He wants to marry me, but I'm not sure we can get along with each other. If we do break up, should I return his gifts plus the money for gas? CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: A "vacation" from each other is a splendid idea. Date others and hope that he grows up in the meantime. If you break up, return his gifts and tell him the gas was on him.

DEAR ABBY: This is trivial, I suppose, but I need a "professional" answer and don't know where else to turn. I hope you can help me. A baby was born illegitimately in our family, and he was given up for adoption when he was one-week-old. The natural grandmother insists on counting this child as her "grandchild." She even included him in a family obituary!

I think she is wrong. Your comments, please. Thank you.

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: A child given up for adoption assumes the name of his adoptive parents and becomes a legal part of THEIR family. Of course the memory of the child may linger in the mind of the natural grandparent, but he is no longer legally part of that

Guest pastor welcomed by area churches

Representatives Bloomingburg, Madison Mills, Spring Grove and Jeffersonville United Methodist churches recently met in Jeffersonville to make plans for participation in the "New World Mission Program" being sponsored by the church.

In this program a number of churches in the United States have been invited to be hosts to visiting pastors from various parts of the world, or a preaching mission.

The guest minister in Fayette County will be from the African country of Gahana. The Rev. Major J.C. Koomson will be in the community from Oct. 18 thru Oct. 23.

Evening services (Sunday thru Thursday) will be held at Jef-Bloomingburg fersonville, and Madison Mills. The Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday services will be at Jeffersonville; Monday evening will be at Madison Mills; and Wednesday evening at Bloomingburg.

Each evening will begin with an informal "forum" with the guest minister followed by the service at 7:30

Rev. Koomson is presently a District Superintendent in Gahana and the pastor of a congregation of 1,700 members.

The churches plan to have a Bible study hour Monday thru Thursday at 10:00 a.m. This study, based on "The Life of Christ" will be directed by the visiting ministers.

physical body dies, but psychic life goes on.

Dr. Kubler-Ross, whose work and writings on counselling persons near death have become recognized as prime guides among professional colleagues, cites her changed outlook in recent articles and lectures.

She says her conclusions are based largely on experiences with dying persons, including conversations with those who had been declared clinically dead but afterward were revived by medical means.

"I now do believe in a life after death, beyond a shadow of a doubt," she says. The Swiss-born psychiatrist, now of Chicago, told a recent conference on death, dying and living at the Quaker Yokefellow Institute at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind.: "None of the patients who have had a death experience - and returned - are ever afraid to die." She said there is a "common denominator" of experiences for dying people, both for children and the aged, for the religious and non-religious.

At first, she said, "there is an experience of floating out of the body" in which the "dying person perceives what is happening to his or her corpse' and observes such things as "heroic attempts" of others to resuscitate it.

Additionally, she said, there comes a feeling of "peace and wholeness" and then an experience of being met by someone already dead, sometimes out of the distant past.

Dr. Kubler-Ross's book, "On Death and Dying," issued by MacMillan in that it is not." She adds that only the 1969, has become a virtual handbook among psychiatrists, chaplains and pastors dealing with dying persons. She lectures widely.

She says she had little traditional religious background, but in a 1974 book, "Questions and Answers on Death and Dying," she says: "Working with dying patients over many years has made me much more religious than I have ever been.

In her analysis, she says most dying people move through five stages of emotions - denying death, anger at it. bargaining about it, depression and acceptance - not always in that order.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY G. ANKROM

Wedding in Falls Church, Va., of interest to friends here

Annandale, Va., became the bride of Larry Gene Ankrom of Alexandria, Va., in the First Christian Church in Falls Church, Va. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Patterson of Annandale, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ankrom of New Holland.

The Rev. Jack Austin performed the double-ring ceremony before the altar decorated with yellow and white daisies and dragon mums. The family pews were marked with white satin bows and yellow mums.

Mrs. Barbara Hansen, organist, presented a half-hour of wedding selections preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bridal satin gown with a lace bodice. The long puffed sleeves had lace inserts and daisy applique trimmed the gown and double veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses.

Miss Libby Collota of Annandale served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Anne Killion of Washington D.C., Miss Pamela Akrom of New Holland, sister of the groom, Miss Madeline Gravette and Miss Sarah Patterson of Annandale, sister of the bride. The attendants were in yellow, dotted Swiss, empire-waisted floor length gowns. They wore widebrimmed hats trimmed with white daisies, and each carried natural wicker baskets of yellow and white

Miss Patricia Patterson, sister of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a floor-length dress similar to the at-

Miss Suzann Frances Patterson of tendants. Barry Ankrom, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

> Pat Ankrom served as best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Philip Bihl of Madison Mills, Jeff Britt of Columbus, Jay Cottrill of Lorain, and Scot Patterson of Annandale, brother of

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Patterson chose a floor-length mint green crepe dress with long full chiffon sleeves. Her accessories were white and she wore a mint green glamelia. The bride's grandmothers wore orchid corsages.

Immediately following the wedding, a buffet-dance was held at The Country Squire in Seven Corners, Va.

The new Mrs. Ankrom wore a peach colored pantsuit and the corsage from her bridal bouquet when the couple left for a honeymoon in Florida

The bride graduated from Jefferson High School in Falls Church, Va., and is a student at Strayer College. She is also employed at Lenders, Inc. Her husband graduated from Miami Trace High School and Bowling Green State University where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity. He works for the U.S. Government in Washington, D.C. The young couple is at home to their friends at 4149 S. Four Mile Run Drive, Apt. No. 2, Arlington,

DEATH RACE 2000

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After "Kojak" this Sunday night, CBS will emit a new cop series called "Bronk." The move is sort of like having an Edsel following a Rolls-Royce.

the fine screen villain who hit it big years ago in "Shane," the classic Western in which he wore basic black. spoke softly and carried a big .45. In "Bronk," he's clad in California casual, still speaks softly, but now totes a .38, perhaps to indicate the lesser caliber of his new endeavor. A BB gun would give a better indication.

Palance plays Lt. Alex Bronkov, a police lieutenant who drives a rebuilt 1955 Cadillac and is assigned to special duty on the staff of a "reform" mayor in mythical Ocean City, Calif.

In Sunday's opener, a wandering, laborious three-murder yarn, he sets out to locate and protect a man he doesn't know from a gunsel the mob has hired.

Exactly why the mob hired this torpedo isn't made clear until near the end, when we learn why the mob was so mad it actually hired two torpedoes to to the intended victim.

slay the man Bronk is trying to save. I shouldn't give away the beginning, but it starts in a motel restaurant when a swarthy young man asks a guy at the next table for a match. "Sure," the guy says, and supplies a flame.

Whereupon the swarthy gent beats The new show stars Jack Palance, him up, accusing him of having "called me a dago." He angrily exits, but not before an alert waiter sees a .45 cannon the baddie has beneath his coat.

Police are summoned, burst into the lad's motel room and arrest him for assault. At headquarters, they check records and find he has a seven-page rap sheet and a rep as a professional

When the mayor learns of this, he says disbelievingly, "A syndicate hit man — in my town." He doesn't see the bright side. It could have been a city budget planner from New York.

Anyhow, Bronk and his fellow officer (Tony King) are set loose to find out whom the hit man is supposed to dispatch.

We learn the hit man couldn't find his intended victim, but knew Bronk probably could. So he got into trouble deliberately, planning to follow Bronk

EFT could soon become household word

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a three-part series of stories on Electronics Funds Transfer, a new banking service that government and banking officials say is needed to stop the rapid increases in the number of checks being written and to avoid a paperwork processing crisis.

Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) is not yet a household term, probably because it has not yet affected many people. But all that is about to change.

If the experts are right, nearly everyone who has a checking account, and even many who don't, could be using EFT within a year. "It is inevitable, simply because of the benefits for every person and every business," says William O. Anderson, president of the Columbus Regional Automated Funds Transfer System (CRAFTS).

CRAFTS with 124 member commercial banks, including all those in Fayette County, coordinates efforts for implementing EFT in the 27 central and southeastern Ohio counties that represent the Columbus zone of the fourth Federal Reserve District.

What EFT can do is very simple, according to Anderson. It can pay your money or allow you to pay your bills, automatically with no paper checks

More than 4000 employes in the area served by CRAFTS are already having their salaries or wages deposited at their banks for them electronically as a pilot program. According to Anderson, those involved like the program because they do not have to worry about losing their checks, don't have to wait in long lines to do their banking. "EFT means your pay is deposited on time every pay period, even if you are sick, traveling on business, on vacation, or just too busy to get to the bank," he said.

Bank employes and a few other people have been paid without checks in the past, but they were usually restricted to deposits in the same bank their employer used, and all the processing was done by hand.

'We are now able to handle everything electronically through an automated clearing house," Anderson said. "That means we eliminate a lot of hand processing and the employee's pay can be deposited wherever he designates.'

The federal government has also recognized the benefits of direct deposit of payroll, and could eventually pay all its employes this way. A growing number of uniformed Air Force personnel in the CRAFTS area is already being paid in this manner, and the same service will probably be made available to thousands of area Social Security recipients later this year.

The other use for EFT is to pay bills. Very soon, you will be able to pay many of those standard monthly bills without writing a check every month - utility budget payments, insurance payments, house, car and other loan payments.

"There is no danger of you forgetting to pay a bill, and you will not have to spend the time and money to write the check and mail it," Anderson explains. "Your bank statement will be your proof of payment, instead of a cancelled check."

Anderson reports that several companies are already exploring the possibilities of setting up these preauthorized electronic payments for their customers.

"EFT is simply another step in improving our transfers of funds- our financial communication - much like what the telephone has done for our personal communications," Anderson says. "As the telephone gives us a fast electronic alternative to writing letters, EFT gives people and businesses

a similar alternative to writing checks.'

And, perhaps the best aspect of EFT for the consumer is that it will not raise the cost of checking accounts, and might even lower them. "We believe EFT will result in cost savings by eliminating a lot of paperwork, Anderson said. "If so, competition will see to it that the savings are passed on to the consumer.' Anderson does not believe that the use of paper checks will be eliminated. at least not int he foreseeable future. "There are some situations," he said, "in which EFT would not be best, just as there are time when it is better to write a letter than to call. But if we can hold down the volume of paper check processing, we will all benefit."

EFT. According to Anderson and other banking experts, it is a simple, safe, efficient and convenient step forward that will benefit people, businesses and the banking industry.

You will get a chance to make your own judgement, and probably very soon. The use of EFT by the businesses you work for or buy from is inevitable.

(The final segment of this series will deal with the future impact of EFT)

CIA toxin tested at Cincinnati lab

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The retired bacteriology chief of Taft Laboratories said shellfish toxin was tested here for the CIA in 1965 but neither he nor his staff thought the mission was peculiar.

Dr. Paul Kabler said he remembered that about five grams of the toxic material was brought to the laboratory in 1965 for testing.

"They were just doing some testing here," Kabler said. "We didn't make any of it.'

Dr. Kabler said he does not believe there are any records of the toxin and that his information was based only on his recollection.

The Taft Laboratories involvement surfaced after CIA Director William Colby told the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence that 11 grams of the shelfish toxin found in the CIA inventory had been produced in U.S. Public Health Service Laboratories in Cincinnati, Ohio and Narraganset, R.I. Testimony before the Senate committee indicated 11 grams of the shellfish toxin is capable of killing hundreds of thousands of people.

Kabler retired in 1971 and said he could not remember any of the scientists involved or who in the Public Health Service ordered the tests.

demanded, after being asked how the Public Health Service could get involved in testing poisons for the CIA. Kabler said it was a "once only" project, although the laboratory was continually involved in testing one thing or another for the government. "No, I didn't think it was peculiar at all," he said.

Kabler said he could not remember who in Washington ordered the tests conducted or why no records were kept. "Well, the years go by and you forget. I can't say who ordered it. Kabler remembered, however, that his staff did not produce the material. He said the toxins were made at Ft. Detrick, Md., and aproximately five grams were brought to the Taft labo-

Local girl named to fashion board

Gretchen Krieger is one of 12 girls in Ohio selected for the 1976 Ohio 4-H fashion board. Selection was made during the 4-H style revue at the 1975 Ohio State Fair.

Gretchen, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kreiger, Jeffersonville-West Lancaster Road, is a member of the Silly Stitchers 4-H Club, advised by Mrs. Carol Wissinger and Mrs. Lillian Fisher. An eight-year 4-H member, Gretchen was named the top model in the Fayette County 4-H senior style revue and represented the county in the dress-up outfit project at the state fair. She is a senior at Miami Trace High School, where she is active in several groups.

As a fashion board member, Gretchen will be planning and carrying out activities that will promote the 4-H clothing program until September 1976. She and other board members were selected on the basis of clothing experiences, appearance of their 4-H outfit, modeling poise, and ability to express the image of a well-dressed teenager. Selection was made by a panel of judges and the 1975 fashion board members, according to Jack Sommers, Fayette County 4-H Extension agent.

Taft and Glenn split on pay hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ohio Sens. Robert Taft Jr. and John Glenn cast opposite votes Thursday as the Senate rejected 53-39 a resolution that would have given federal employes, including members of Congress, an 8.66 per cent pay raise rather than the 5 per cent recommended by President Ford.

Taft voted for the higher raise while Glenn opposed it.

Glenn said later he voted against the

UAW leaders plan fight against Rhodes bond issues

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Thursday extolled his fourpoint economic package on the November ballot, but his request for support was rejected by state United Auto Workers leaders who voted to campaign against the issues.

The governor spoke here to about 300 members of the UAW's state Community Action Program. Various delegates said they thought Rhodes' program would shift more of the tax burden from industry to individual taxpayers and workers.

The governor said his proposal to provide tax incentives for industries will result in a total of 500,000 permanent jobs, 260,000 of which would be created by next year.

He said the tax abatement proposal to induce industries to locate or expand in Ohio would create enough jobs to compensate municipalities for any tax revenues they may not collect.

Besides tax incentives for industry the governor's four-point package for economic recovery proposes issuance of revenue bonds to stimulate the housing industry and bonds for transportation and aid to cities.

The $1.75 billion transportation issue would be financed by an increase in the gasoline tax and the $2.75 billion bond issues for cities would be financed by an increase in the state sales tax. The union leaders said they would hold another meeting to map out their strategy to defeat the ballot issues.

COMMEMORATING THE BICENTENNIAL OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION 1976

THE SPIRIT OF 76

SYMBOLIC of the spirit of the American revolution, the ragged, ill fed and poorly equipped Continental Army marched into battle to the tune of drums and fife sustained by a passion for freedom. This great idea, that men were willing to die for made them finally unconquerable.

The original "Spirit of '76" painting, by Willard for the Nation's Centennial celebration, vividly captures the spirit and determination of the Continental Army.

History, legends offered in southeast Ohio

Southeastern Ohio is many things to historic cities in Ohio. Native oldest building in the northwest many people. It's the natural beauty of Mariettans are proud of this fact, and rolling hills and the majestic Ohio are eager to share their city's history River; the sweat and toil of the glass blowers, the height of man's creative genius; and the history and legends of early Ohio that are unparalleled anywhere else in the state. But most of all, southeastern Ohio is Marietta. . . for that's where it all begun.

On a misty, spring morning in 1788, General Rufus Putnam led 48 men to the banks of the Muskingham River and founded the first city in the Northwest Territory. Marietta has since become one of the most important with interested visitors.

For this reason, the Marietta tourist bureau has made available an "Adventure Tour" brochure, offering a unique walking or driving tour of the city's significant historic landmarks. Winding in and around the streets and alleys of this old river-town, you can see such historic points of interest as the Rufus Putnam landing, the First Congregational Church, the Sacra Via, and the Ohio Company Land Office, the Territory.

Perhaps the highlight of the tour, however, and the place where Marietta's history is brought altogether for the visitor, is the Campus Martius Museum, located at Second and Washington street.

Here, contained within the walls of the museum is the 200-year-old home of Rufus Putnam, restored to its original condition. Visitors can get a vivid account of how crude and simplistic the living conditions were at that time, as costumed guides interpret the fascinating history of the various, fullyfurnished rooms.

Outside the house, visitors can explore the sturdy exterior, including the famous bell Queen Marie Antoinette gave General Putnam at the beginning of his exploration. Then, for a more detailed study of the town's history. enter the rooms adjacent to the Putnam house, which displays various exhibits of the early arts and crafts and military history of those first settlers. including the nation's finest display of early surveying instruments.

To visualize the lifestyle and industry of that period, wander downstairs, where storefronts of a cooper's shop, a pharmacy, an old printing press and quilt displays bring early Marietta back to life.

No history of Marietta is complete, however, without including the growth and development of the famous Ohio River and the Ohio River Museum, on Washington and Front Street, is an excellent way of reliving those early days. The contemporary exhibit buildings, situated on the banks of the Muskingham conform to the environment of the river. Built on stilts to accommodate the seasonal floods, the museum is a series of three separate structures, linked together by elevated walkways, so that the visitor can stay in constant touch with the river's sights and sounds, as he goes from one building to the next.

The units are arranged in chronological progression, beginning with a thorough explanation of the creation of the river system, taking the visitor through the "Golden Age of the Steamboat," a fascinating look at the famous "floating palaces," through a collection of models, and finally to the "Impact of Man on the River.

"The River," a 16 projector multimedia presentation is given every 30 minutes in the small auditorium, located in the center of the museum.

Anchored a few feet away, is the W.P. Snyder, Jr., one of the last steampowered sternwheelers to ply America's inland waterways. Visitors are welcome to "come aboard" and examine the engine room and pilothouse, similar to the ones used on the sternwheelers of Mark Twain's day. An attendant is on duty to answer your questions.

If the Snyder gets in your blood, and you're dreaming of taking a cruise on one of the old boats, you have only to walk a few more feet and board the VALLEY GEM, a diesel powered replica of a sternwheeler passenger packetboat. The VALLEY GEM will take you and your family for a relaxing hour-long cruise down the Muskingham. You can dream of the days when these boats were the floating palaces of the river.

The Ohio River Museum and Campus Martius are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission for each site is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children, or a special combination ticket can be purchased for $1.25 for adults, $75 cents for children.

Just across the Ohio River Bridge, at the foot of Second Street in Williamstown, West Virginia, is the Fenton Art

Hillsboro man builds own chopper

HILLSBORO — Some people build ships in bottles, others build model airplanes. But Homer Bell builds helicopters.

Sometimes, he literally drops in on friends who live in rural areas and who have backyards large enough for him to land his chopper.

Materials to build the craft came in a kit manufactured by Rotorway, Inc., of Phoenix, Ariz., and Bell purchased one package of the kit at a time until he completed construction.

"It took 20-25 packages to build the thing. The air frame package came first, and had to be welded together," he said. Bell constructed the device without prior knowledge of welding or mechanics, he claimed.

"I think anyone who is halfway mechanically-minded could have built it," he explained. "The company provided easy instructions. Whenever I hit a problem, I called them and they were very responsive.'

Although Bell didn't have serious problems during the construction period, he had a minor one afterward.

The copter, under construction in the garage of his Hillsboro home, was too large to remove once he had finished work on it. After spending two years of work, he found it was just too large to get through the doors.

"First, I took the garage door off, hoping this would allow enough clearance. Finally, I realized the only way to get it out was to remove a few layers of brick above the garage. With this extra space, I could get it out," he

The copter, called "The Scorpion," has a cruising speed of 80 miles per hour and is powered by a 125horsepower engine. The cruising range is limited to 100 miles.

It is, however, only an experimental craft, but has been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The amateur-build category of flying machines permits home builders to construct and fly their own crafts.

However, at least 51 per cent of the total construction must be completed by the person applying for the experimental class permit. Under this category, the craft must be used for fun, transportation and education. It cannot be used commercially.

"The accomplishment I'm most proud of is that I taught myself to fly the helicopter with no outside instruction," Bell boasted, as he waxed the sides of the machine.

Before a pilot can fly with a passenger, though, he must complete 75 hours of flying time in a practice area. Currently, Bell has logged 88 hours. "I want to wait until I have a few more hours of time in before I take anyone for a ride," he said.

Recently, he won second place in the "Man and Machine" category at a contest in Oshkosh, Wis. The contest is sponsored annually by amateur builders.

Bell has found, though, that flying a helicopter can be dangerous. During a landing he damaged the tail roter. 'When I repaired it, I didn't replace the drive belt. So, I went spinning to the ground and damaged the frame, rotor and cabin," he said.

"Fortunately for me, I was only flying at a height of five feet,' he

Repairs took three months to complete a cost of $2,200

How does Mrs. Bell feel about her husband's expensive hobby?

"Well, I've just started taking my student pilot's training," she said.

Aerial survey eyes Appalachian faults

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)- An aerial survey is underway over four Appalachian states to take radarproduced images of faults in the earth's crust where reserves of natural gas may be hidden.

The radar technology, developed by Goodyear Aerospace Corp. in Akron, is being used to map parts of West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Virginia.

Morris B. Jobe, Goodyear Aerospace president, said Wednesday that the aerial survey must be followed by onthe ground exploration. Another official said it may be two years before additional natural gas may become available following the Appalachian

Goodyear spokesmen said the big advantage of using the radar technology is that it allows technicians to view the terrain from an angle.

"This helps provide geologists with information on faults and other earth formations which cannot be seen as clearly on conventional photos," Jobe said.

O'Brien confident as Jug time nears

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Joe sensation. Nero's career earnings have O'Brien, favored Nero's driver, took Thursday's rainout of the Little Brown Jug in stride.

In fact, the silver-haired veteran said a probable muddy track today at the Delaware County Fairgrounds should affect Nero's 2-1 favoritism very little.

"Going on his past performances, Nero does very well on an off track,' said O'Brien, leaning on a stable door and watching the consistent rain.

"The first time I ever drove Nero as a 2-year-old, we raced on a terrible track at Vernon Downs. We won," said O'Brien, who also has the betting choice, 3-1 Bo Bo Arrow, in the second

Linksters drop another match

A drizzling rain and a consistent Wilmington team spoiled Wednesday's Washington C.H. Blue Lion League golf match at The Washington Country

Tony Berlin led the Wilmington linksters with a 42 followed by his teammates 43, 43 and 44 resulting in a 172-181 Washington C.H. loss.

Senior Scott Sefton led the Blue Lions and took medalist honors with a 41. He was followed by Gary Fisher with a 44, John Moore with a 47 and fifth man Greg Tillett with a 49.

surpassed $362,000, built in 28 firsts, two seconds and one third in 31 starts.

This season Nero has lost only twice. And both of his conquerors, Whata Baron and Osborne's Bret, were in against him in the tougher 10-pacer first division.

O'Brien said he has won every time with Nero on four occasions in 1975.

"The worst conditions were in the Joe Neville Memorial at Hazel Park. It was really muddy, just terrible," the Hall of Fame driver recalled. Nero still won, scoring a fifth straight victory in his slowest time (2:02 3-5) of 1975.

O'Brien's lone concern was over his poor, No. 9 post position. He was to leave in the second tier behind polesitting Armbro Petch, a slow-starting 15-1 longshot.

"An off track will be that much more of a handicap in the second tier," he explained. "With all that mud flying, it's hard to see where you are going.

"And the horses in front of you are more liable to break stride," added O'Brien, already the winner of two Jugs with Shadow Wave (1958) and Melvin's Woe (1973).

Poor track conditions would be more of a liability for Bo Bo Arrow.

"He's not as good on an off track because of the way he's gaited. He's a very low going horse that doesn't lift his hind feet as much. He tends to drive them in the mud," said O'Brien.

Rain was a 50 per cent probability today, leading Hank Thomson, president of the Little Brown Jug jewel of pacing's Triple Crown.

current college coaches. Counters Hayes, whose 203 victories are second only to Alabama's Bear Bryant on the active list:

Reds register 100th win

ATLANTA (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, who says he is "always amazed at how the balls jump out of here," got another taste of amazement at Atlanta Stadium Thursday night.

He was treated to home runs by George Foster, Dan Driessen and Tony Perez which helped his Reds defeat the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in a National League baseball game.

All three of the homers came off Atlanta starter Carl Morton and enabled the Reds to pull from behind into a 3-2 lead.

The Braves tied the game 3-3 in the eighth on Ed Goodson's single and it took a 10th inning, two-out single by Bill Plummer, driving in Pete Rose, who had walked, to sew the game up for the

"How many walks do I have now, 91?" Rose asked after the game. "It looks like I'm not going to make a hundred.'

Cincinnati starter Clay Kirby struggled early and was behind by two runs when Foster and Driessen tied the score with homers in the fourth. Perez then provided the lead with his homer

"This ballpark makes you hit home runs," Anderson reiterated.

Kirby was pulled for Will McEnaney after six and two-thirds innings.

Anderson lifted McEnaney twothirds of an inning later, after McEnaney had struck out two batters, to put in Rawly Eastwick Asked why, Anderson replied, "I just wanted to use my bullpen. We may set a record this year for using relief pitchers.

Anderson pulled Eastwick two-thirds of an inning later to put in Pedro Borbon, 9-5, who was credited with the win. Pablo Torrealba, 0-1, who pitched the last two innings for the Braves, took the loss.

Cincinnati and Atlanta meet here again tonight.

The Pittsburgh Pirates were only the Pittsburgh Pussycats to Steve Carlton. "I wish he had hung a few curve balls instead of those snap dragons he was throwing," said Willie Stargell after the Philadelphia left-hander tamed his hot-hitting Pirates 4-1 with a four-hitter Thursday night. The Pirates, who have been hitting like there's no tomorrow, were just putty in the hands of Carlton at Veterans Stadium. "He got us out in key situations," said Stargell. "He had a good breaking ball and a slider on occasion. He threw the heat (fastball) to spots. He was real sharp tonight."

Fans early for tickets

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I promised my son I would take him to at least one playoff game and I wanted to be sure I would get a ticket," said Mrs. Blair Talbott of Cincinnati, holding first place late Thursday night outside Riverfront Stadium.

The Cincinnati Reds today began over-the-counter ticket sales of 3,000 tickets for each of two National League Playoff games to be played here.

Mrs. Talbott was among more than 30 persons lined up Thursday night in hopes of getting at least four or the remaining seats when the windows opened at 10 a.m.

"I arrived here at 7:45 p.m. and was number two in line, but the man who was here first was afraid to get his name in the paper because he was supposed to be at work. He is hiding now, but he gets the spot in back of me when he gets back. 'I'm going to get mine for Saturday and will take my son, Ted, his friend David, and I guess I'll take my husband since he is at least doing the baby sitting tonight while I'm here.' The Reds said each person could buy up to four tickets, while they last, for either one of the games played Saturday, Oct. 4, or Sunday, Oct. 5. Mrs. Talbott brought a lawn chair with a sleeping bag, a radio to listen to the Reds game with the Braves at Atlanta and was prepared to stay the

Carlton won the game under pressure conditions, for a loss would have killed any flickering hopes the Phillies might have had to catch the Pirates in the National League East

As it is, it still may take a miracle. The Phillies pulled within six games of the Pirates, whose magic number for clinching the division remained at five.

In the other National League games. the Montreal Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0; the New York Mets defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Atlanta Braves 4-3.

Home runs by Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski backed Carlton's superb pitching. Carlton raised his record to 14-13 by taming the Pirates, striking out 11 and walking five.

The Pirates' Rennie Stennett, incidentally, continued to break records with his bat. He collected two hits Thursday night to tie the National League mark of 12 hits in three games, held by three other players. Previously, he belted seven hits in one game for a record and three more in another for a two-game mark of 10. Expos 5, Cardinals 0

Jim Dwyer singled, doubled and tripled while Gary Carter and Pete Mackanin pounded home runs to lead Montreal over St. Louis. The Expos, completing a two-game sweep, made the most of seven hits off Cardinal right-hander Ron Reed, 12-12, who departed after six innings, and Harry

Parker, who was greeted by Mackanin's solo homer in the seventh. Mets 7, Cubs 5

Dave Kingman's club-record 35th home run of the season, a two-run shot in the bottom of the ninth inning, lifted New York past Chicago. The Mets, who spotted the Cubs a four-run lead in the first, tied up the game in the eighth when Kingman doubled and came home on Jesus Alou's pinch-hit single, and Joe Torre tripled home pinchrunner Bud Harrelson.

Rusty Staub hit his 18th homer of the season, a two-run shot in the fifth, for the first two Mets runs. Staub singled in the ninth before Kingman launched his game-winning blast and topped the team record of 34 homers set by Frank Thomas in 1962.

Royals 4, Twins 3

Amos Otis' tie-breaking single in a two-run seventh inning lifted Kansas City past Minnesota and helped the run in the fourth and singled home Duane Kuiper, who had walked, in the first as Cleveland continued its lateseason winning ways. Detroit's lone run came in the seventh on Danny Meyer's homer, his eighth of the season, as winner Jim Bibby went the distance to post his seventh victory against 15 defeats.

Royals keep pace with Oakland. The KC seventh was also aided by a walk and two errors as Twins pitcher Eddie Bane threw away sacrifice bunts by

Angels 5, Rangers 3

Andy Etchebarren's three-run homer in the sixth and Frank Tanana's routegoing seven-hitter gave the California Angels a come-from-behind victory over Texas. Etchebarren's fourbagger followed singles by Bruce Bochte and John Galaz.

NFL accord hammered out

By JOHN NELSON

AP Sports Writer When the leaves begin turning amber and gold and the air takes on the chill

Football League season to begin. But sometimes it takes more than a mere change of seasons to change men's minds nip of fall, it's time for the National

This year it took 13 hours of gruelling labor negotiations preceded by 191/2 months of uncertainty, a hard-headed federal mediator who wouldn't give in to confusion or other hardheads, and the frightening threat of finally losing fan interest and dollars.

It wasn't until 9 a.m. EDT Thursday, less than three days before the scheduled start of the NFL's regular season, that a strike by five NFL teams began to crumble and the pro football season emerged, at least temporarily, from potential chaos.

Sargent Karch, executive director of the NFL Management Council; Ed Garvey, Karch's union counterpart, and the government's top labor troubleshooter, W.J. Usery, head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, emerged from their marathon session in New York to announce they had reached a "memorandum of agreement."

It was more of a promise than an agreement. In essence, Management Council and players' union were telling the players: If they would play football, the owners would give them a contract they could live with, and let bygones be bygones.

It worked. Almost immediately the New York Jets, one of the five striking teams, announced they would return to practice. Three more striking teams the Washington Redskins, Detroit Lions and New York Giants — followed suit. And shortly before 6 p.m. EDT, the New England Patriots, who began the series of wildcat walkouts six days ago, said they would return to the practice field.

Although details "memorandum of agreement" never were officially announced, The Associated Press learned later Thursday they were based on a sixpoint proposal made after an all-night session Monday in Washington, D.C. The names were the same; all that changed were the dates.

The albatross hanging around the necks of the NFL owners had been a contract that expired 191/2 months ago, on Jan. 31, 1974. When the Management Council promised to lay before the union a new, equitable proposal by Monday, Sept. 22, the albatross was

The "memorandum of agreement" and Management Council agreed to the through Oct. 1.

Players will get the contract the sixpoint proposal as amended at the 13-

-The first point of the original sixpoint proposal said the Patriots' camp would be open by Sept. 16 for practice. That date was changed to Sept. 18.

Cleveland Browns ready for opener with Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Peters, meet Isaac Curtis.

The introduction comes Sunday, and it may only be in passing.

Peters, a rookie cornerback with the Cleveland Browns, gets his baptism of fire in the National Football League against Curtis, the chief demoralizer in Cincinnati's offensive arsenal.

And Curtis, the Bengals' greyhoundfast wide receiver, admits Peters may see a lot of him.

"Yes, I think we'll be working on him," said Curtis, whose 10 touchdowns last year ranked second only to Oakland's Cliff Branch. "This is the regular season. You pick on any weak spot there is," added Curtis, who averaged 21.1 yards per A halfback in college and a world class sprinter in track, Curtis has become one of the NFL's most-feared receivers in two short years. The Browns have reason to worry about the threat posed by Curtis. He has figured prominently in Cincinnati's three straight victories over the

Washington C.H. has the only league win, but Greenfield should join the Blue Lions after tonight's contest with SCOL newcomer Madison Plains.

Other games have Hillsboro at Zane Trace, Unioto at Adena and Wilmington hosting Purcell.

The three undefeated league schools are at or near the top in team offensive and defensive statistics. Miami Trace and Washington C.H. are tops in the offensive figures with the Panthers having amassed the most total yards with 583 while the Blue Lions lead the league in scoring with 49 points.

Defensively, Miami Trace, the only team unscored upon, leads in yielding the fewest total yards. The Panthers have given opponents only 202 yards in their two games. Greenfield is second giving up 265 yards to opponents. The Blue Lions lead in rushing yardage yielded as the opposition has mustered only 111 yards on the ground against Washington's 6-1 defense.

Circleville's Biff Bumgarner has picked up where he left off last season in two offensive departments. The allleague running back has scrambled for 285 yards on the ground and he has

New MT cage coach speaks at Good Hope

GOOD HOPE - John Woolums, the new head basketball coach at Miami Trace High School, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Good Hope Lions Club Thursday night in Wayne Township Hall.

Woolums, who has been coaching high school athletics for 35 years, outlined the areas in which he felt an individual should concentrate to become an outstanding athlete, stressing education first.

"Athletic participation privilege," Woolums said. He stressed accountability, first to the athlete's parents, then to his church and neighborhood and then to education.

DOVER, Ohio (AP) - "Where's the football game?"

That question kept running through John Teynor's mind as he sat in the Crater Stadium stands while a marching band played on and on.

Teynor, who had driven here from his home in New Washington to see the Tuscarawas Catholic football team, coached by his brother Art, battle Jewett-Scio, thought he had arrived at halftime

Finally, he learned from someone seated nearby that he was watching the matory Dover band review, featuring six high school bands

"It was the longest halftime show I've ever seen," Teynor said later. "And the band . . . it filled half the Woolums said an athlete must be coachable, willing to accept criticism and have the desire to improve. He defined a poor loser as one "who finds an excuse" and the hard loser as the person who admits "we didn't do it

'Great athlets are not born, they are made," he commented The meeting was conducted by club president John Noble. Guests were the coaches and members of the Mosquito League, Little League and major and minor Babe Ruth league teams. Jim Braun arranged the program.

During the meeting it was announced that the Washington C.H. Lions Club will be sponsoring a blood bank on Oct. 9. Meade Noble announced that a 50-50 dance is scheduled for Oct. 25 in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds. Three passengers in the Roush car complained of injuries but were not treated at the time. The 1972 model car was heavily damaged.

Police officers cited Harold H. Smith, 70, Rt. 5, Washington C.H. for reckless operation after his car struck a parked auto in the 800 block of Temple Street Thursday evening.

Smith was westbound on Temple Street when his car collided with the left front of a parked car owned by Ora Fitzpatrick of 832 E. Temple St., officers reported.

Damage was moderate.

No one was reported injured in a carbicycle accident investigated by sheriff's deputies. They reported a car driven by Kenneth L. Miller, 47, Frankfort and a bicycle ridden by James. L. Mossbarger, 11, Rt. 1, Greenfield, were both northbound on Good Hope-Lyndon Road, when Mossbarger rode his bicycle into the side of the Miller car.

The mishap occurred in Ross County. A large hog was killed when it ran into the the path of a car on Jones Road, just east of West Road, Thursday morning

Ohioan shot in escape

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A federal prisoner who attempted to escape from deputies while changing planes at the Atlanta airport was shot and wounded Thursday, said James Henson, U.S. marshal.

Henson identified the prisoner as Whitten Shanafelt, 19, who has been serving time in the Ohio State Refor-

He was listed in good condition with a leg wound.

Henson said two deputies were escorting Shanafelt and had stopped at Hartsfield International Airport here to change planes from Birmingham, Ala., Teynor was told the game he wanted to Cleveland, when the prisoner started running

"They tried to catch him, but couldn't." said Henson, "then one of the deputies shot once. He (Shanafelt)

Glass Factory. Glass has long been a vital industry of this area, and to watch the making of the finished product constitutes a worthwhile sidetrip for your family. Here, you will see how the molten glass in the patient and skillful hands of the workers, using techniques that are centuries old, form some of the finest handmade glass in the country. The trip is not easily forgotten. Afterwards, browse in the Fenton Gift Shop, where many of the pieces made in the factory are on sale to the public. Tours are given Monday through Friday every 20 minutes, beginning at a.m. and ending 7:20 p.m. and are completely free to the visitors.

The scenary down in the southern section is spectacular. Its high hills and narrow valleys give the visitor a sense of space and timelessness. If you're out to explore the natural beauty of the area, or if you're looking for a peaceful and inexpensive place to stay while exploring historic Marietta, consider Forked Run State Park, an extensive camping area on a broad hilltop, overlooking the countryside. Complete with nature programs, boat docks, swimming and picnic shelters, it would be easy to spend one entire day at Forked Run just soaking in the beauty of southeastern Ohio.
